Edmund Rice Prayer

O God, We thank you for the life of Edmund Rice.
He Opened his heart to Christ present in those oppressed by poverty and injustice.
May we follow his example of faith and generosity.
Grant us the courage and compassion of Edmund
as we seek to live lives of love and service.
We ask this through Christ our Lord.
Amen

President's Address

Br. Anthony Murphy

Dear Students and Friends of Vancouver College,

Since 1922, Vancouver College has, by the grace of God and the good efforts of many people, nurtured the growth and development of thousands of boys and young men. Our school founders were people of generosity who remained faithful to high Christian ideals as exemplified by Blessed Edmund Rice and his followers.

As with Edmund Rice, we look to scripture (Matthew 12: 45-50) where Jesus asks rhetorically, "Who is my Mother?" "Who are my brothers?" Jesus teaches, "Whoever does the will of my Father is my brother, my sister and my mother!" Most of us are blessed with a supportive home with parents and siblings. At another level, 'home' is any place that in some way nurtures our development, self-awareness and our very souls. In that sense, Vancouver College is a home away from home for our students. As with every home, there are struggles, disagreements, misunderstandings, and occasional poor choices. However, in greater measure, there are countless moments of camaraderie, learning, encouragement, laughter, fun and the exhilarating fulfillment of accomplishment. There are times of prayer, reflection, celebration and silence. Vancouver College is 'home' because when we are at our best, we truly are 'brothers' to each other.

I have enjoyed the privilege of serving in leadership at Vancouver College for the past seven years - 5 years as Principal and 2 years as President. My religious Brothers have asked me to serve on the North American Leadership Team for the Congregation of Christian Brothers. With humility and trusting in the Grace of God, I have accepted this new position and thus I take my leave of my home... Vancouver College.

I give praise and thanks to God for the multiple gifts of time, talents and treasures given by our teachers, our parents, students, benefactors and friends. Under the leadership of our Principal, Mr. David Hardy, we continue our high academic achievements. I am grateful for the service of leadership provided by Mr. Roger DesLauriers during his fifteen years at Vancouver College and I know his new school will thrive under his guidance. Our Board of Directors, under the leadership of Mr. John Nixon, continues to enable Vancouver College to continue to grow into a strong future. Our Vancouver College Capital Campaign with the assistance of Executive Director, Mr. Bruce Jagger, has made significant progress. As he takes his leave of VCMF I salute him for his sustained love of all things purple and gold.

The quiet behind the scenes service given by Mr. Bill Batista in his cleaning of our school for 32 years is highly valued as a part of our Vancouver College history. I pray for God's Blessings on him in his retirement and I thank him for all he has done and for all he is.

The generosity of our parents, our alumni, our staff and students and a wide network of friends have enabled Vancouver College to continue to be a nurturing home for all who count themselves amount us. As we move forward with our debt reduction and site development plans, I pray, through the intercession of Blessed Edmund Rice, that we may remain faithful to the Essential Elements of Catholic Education at Vancouver College and continue to provide a nurturing home environment for generations of boys as they grow in Wisdom and in Grace.

For now, as I bid you all adieu, I offer sincere congratulations to our 2005 Vancouver College Graduates. I pray that the faith and learning community of Vancouver College will always have a home in their hearts.

Semper Fidelis!
Brother Anthony Murphy, cfc
President

Farewell Br. Murphy

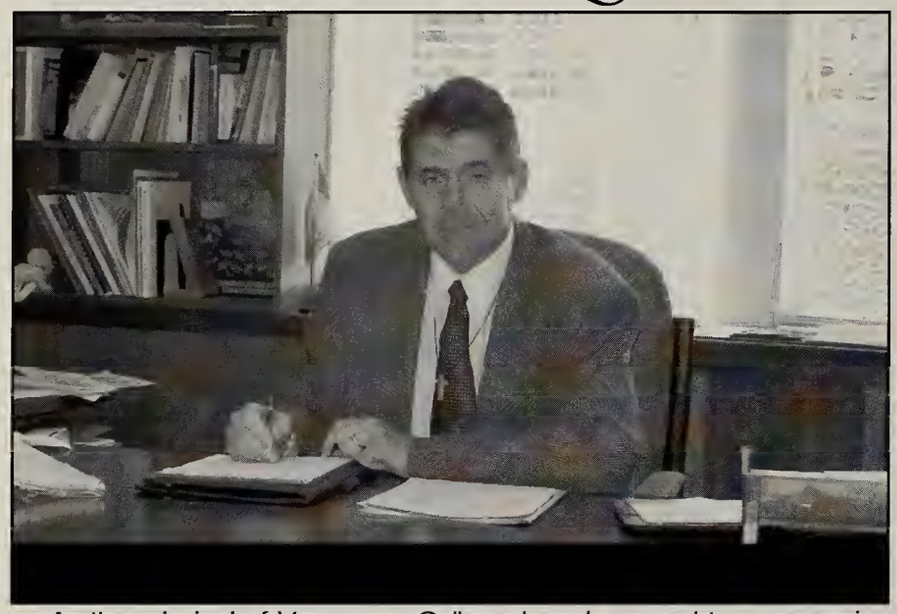
Principal's Address

Mr. Dave Hardy



As the principal of Vancouver College, I am honoured to once again have the opportunity to extend my gratitude and appreciation through the Collegian 2005. This year's Collegian, as in all past years, exemplifies our community's commitment to the pursuit of excellence. With great sincerity and appreciation, I would like to complement our senior editors and Mr. Randy Duggan, our Yearbook advisor, for their sacrifice and dedication to this outstanding publication.

Throughout its history, Vancouver College has been both a faith community and learning community and that tradition is the very essence of Vancouver College. Webster defines community simply as "a unified body of people" or "a group of people with a common characteristic or interest, living and working together within a larger society." Either are apt descriptions of Vancouver College.

Our common characteristics as a faith community are to learn an live the Gospel values of Jesus Christ in a Catholic setting in th tradition of Blessed Edmund Rice. As a learning community, w are all here to fully utilize the gifts bestowed on us by Jesus, ou Brother, and maximize our potential.

On behalf of the staff and administration of Vancouve College, I would like to extend our gratitude to the boys and t their parents for truly breathing life into the phrase that Vancouve College is a fatih and learning community.

As we go forward into the larger society when we leave Vancouver College, we must take with us that experience o being part of a vibrant faith and learning community and be me of faith and conviction and continue to live the Gospel values o Jesus Christ. Generations have done that before you and it is you challenge to maintain that tradition.

That torch of faith will be first passed to our Graduating Grade 12's. You have been excellent leaders and outstanding role models this year - in the classroom, on the playing field, or the stage, and most importantly, in service to others. We are confident that you are well prepared to meet your goals. May Jesus, our Brother, bless you in all your endeavors.

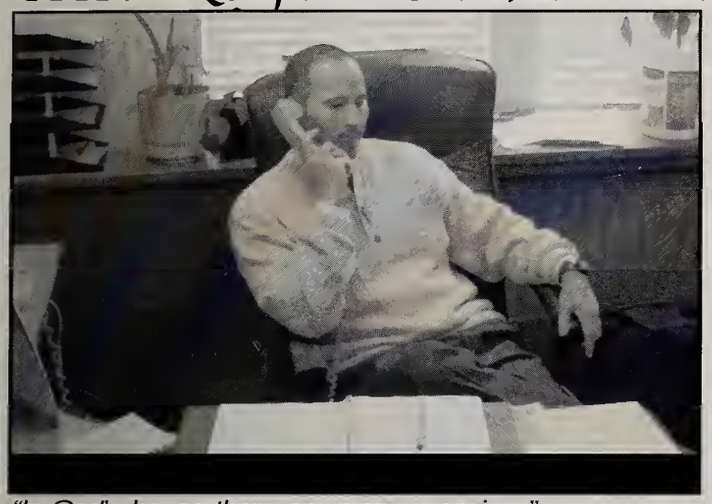
Our experience at Vancouver College has made us amongst the fortunate few. Not everyone has been afforded the opportunities we have been given!

To those of you whom remain, may we, like all before us continue to be faithful to the Essential Elements of a Catholic Education at Vancouver College. In doing so, I truly believe Vancouver College will continue to be a home for the past present, and future.

David Hardy

Assistant Principals

Mr. Roger DesLauriers



"In God's house there are many mansions"

As we contemplate another successful year at Vancouver College, we are reminded just how fortunate we really are to be part of this very special community.

Just as our own home represents so much more than the materials used to build it, in order for a school to function as it should, it too must be far more than the material aspects of the building. What makes a building a home or a school has little to do with how it is built or how many rooms or amenities it holds. Rather, what makes it a living, breathing entity, what makes it so much more than simply an edifice is the people who dwell within it.

Vancouver College is known for excellence in many different facets. However, the most significant factor contributing to its success is not the achievements, but rather the many relationships that have been forged and enhanced amongst all members of the community. Wherever we see positive family and/or school dynamics, we most certainly will find positive and effective relationships. I do not believe you can sustain one without the other.

Vancouver College is truly blessed with respect to its most vital resource, its people. For many of our students, this school has been their familiar dwelling for thirteen years. For many families, their connection to Vancouver College has spanned generations. It is no accident that we have had staff members here for over twenty-five years. If home is really where the heart is, then the pulse of Vancouver College continues to beat as strongly as ever. We look forward to many more generations of students, teachers and parents making our school a special part of their lives, their home away from home.

"Where everybody knows your name, and they're always glad you came."

Mr. Mich DesLauriers

One of my favorite quotes is from Mother Teresa who said: "God does not call me to be successful, God calls me to be faithful." This quote reminds me about God's expectation for me and how it differs from the world's expectation. It reminds me about my vocation as a husband, father, coach, administrator and teacher as we journey with your sons through their high school years. It tells me how significant these years are and how quickly the time passes. But as long as we stay faithful to God's plan then we can count ourselves as successful.

I truly believe this describes the community at Vancouver College. When we call ourselves a faith and learning community it is with pride and conviction and is evident in all that we do. We honor the Essential Elements of a Christian Brother Education whose roots lie with their founder Blessed Edmund Rice. This does not mean we are perfect. What it implies is what our motto states: "Semper Fidelis" -always faithful. This is at the heart of what Vancouver College is all about.

Assistant Principals

Mrs. Barbara Seppelt

Each year, the teachers talk about the graduating class's personality. Was it a hard workin group? Was it filled with spunk or energy? How were the boys academically? While each class is very different and unique, every graduating class is also very much the same. It is filled with students, young men, who are on the verge of change, uncertainty and potential. Each graduating student has put time into Vancouver College and has been a part of its time tested faith and learning learning community, some as many as thirteen years and some as few as one. All, however, have come to love Vancouver College and feel so much a part of its community, its ethos, its being. Whether we are beginning the education journey in kindergarten, or are graduating this year, Vancouver College will always feel like home.

In my fifteen years at Vancouver College I have seen many aged men walk throught the halls with wishful looks on their faces, remembering the good old days, the old classmates, the Christian Brothers and teachers. More than one has said that many, many years later, they still feel a sense of home in the school. I, too, feel this way. I feel very blessed to have been a part of your lives and a part of the school. I wish all of the graduates God's blessing on their new path and I hope to see many of you back home for a visit.

Board of Directors

As the Chair of the Board of Directors, I have the honour to serve with fifteen men and women who give their time and expertise in service to our school community. Directors are selected from amoung the alumni, the parents and the community at large and appointed by the Trustees of Vancouver College. The Board is responsible for developing and maintaining the policy for the educational direction of the school and it ensures that the school is managed effectively in a manner consistent with that policy.

The Board is also actively supporting the work of the Vancouver College Millennium Foundation to raise funds for the renewal and invigoration of our learning environment and the reduction of the debt that resulted from the settlement of the legal challenge in 2002. We are committed to success.

On behalf on my colleagues on the Board of Directors, I extend to each of our graduating students my sincere best wishes for all God's graces and blessings in all your future endeavours. I encourage you to remember our motto, "semper fideles", and to remain loyal to the Christian values you learned while attending Vancouver College. You are part of an ever-expanding fraternity of Vancouver College Alumni.

To all remaining students and their families, enjoy your years of growth as part of this faith and learning community. The Board is committed to working with our Administration, our staff and parents in the continuing quest for excellence in all aspects of the educational experience offered at Vancouver College.

John H. Nixon, Class of 1969
Chairman, Board of Directors

Parent Association

As the President of the Vancouver College Parents Association, I had the privilege of working the rest of the Executives to serve the needs of our sons and the school community during the past year.

The Parent Association encourages, support and promotes a Catholic Education for our sons at the Vancouver College through participating in school activities, ongoing cooperation and dialogue within the school community, promoting and assisting in charitable activities through which our students can put Catholic faith in action and raising funds for the needs of the school.

This year the Parents Association continued to build on its goals of improving communications to parents by encouraging the use of the school's website, e-mail, and mailing. Parents continue to be an active and a vital thread that keeps the school community together. During the school year, parents volunteered in excess of 40,000 hours to make the school a batter environment for our sons. Our involvement goes beyond the fundraising activities and includes activities such as parking patrol, classroom, and administrative support. These are essential ingredients the Parents Association contributes to the social fabric of the school.

The Parents Association is committed to representing the parents in the promotion of excellence in the education and support for our sons in their development as a person at Vancouver College. We extend an invitation to all parents to join us and become an part of the Vancouver College school community.

Semper Fidelis!!

Archbishop Raymond Roussin, S.M.
Tenth Archbishop of Vancouver

Prior to his installment as the tenth archbishop of Vancouver on February 17, 2004, Archbishop Raymond Roussin, S.M., had previously served as the coadjutor bishop of Victoria since 1998. He studied philosophy at St. Louis University, and studied for the priesthood at the University of Fribourg in Switzerland. He was ordained on March 21, 1970, and is from Boniface, MB.

THE ARCHBISHOP

Saturday, April 2, 2005. 9:37 PM Vatican Time.
Our dearly beloved Pope John Paul II, passed away in his private apartment in the Vatican. He dies at the age of 84, after living a life filled with service and love. Karol Jozef Wojtyla was born on May 20, 1920 in Wadowice, Poland. He received his first communion and sacrament of reconciliation at the age of 9 and was confirmed at 18. He entered Krakow's Jagiellonian University to take up acting in 1938, but due to the Nazi invasion of 1939, he was forced to work in a quarry for the University was closed down. By 1942, he became aware of his calling to priesthood, and in secret, he entered the Clandestine Seminary of Krakow. When the Second World War ended, he continued his studies in Theology at the major seminary in Krakow and was ordained on November 1, 1946. He rose through the ranks of the church and was appointed the Archbishop of Krakow by June 26, 1967. By this time, he was very involved in his archdiocese and as well as in the Vatican II council and other Synods of Bishops. He was finally elected as pope on October 16, 1978, becoming the first non-Italian pope to be elected in 400 years.
He had many works to contribute to the church and the world every since that day. He has even gained the title of most travelled pope of the century, and the "Great Communicator".
He has completed 104 pastoral visits outside of Italy and 146 within Italy. His principal documents include 14 encyclicals, 15 Apostolic exhortations, 11 apostolic constitutions, 45 apostolic letter, and 5 books. He has also presided at 147 beatification ceremonies (1338 Blessed Proclomations) and 51 canonization ceremonies (482 Saints) during his pontificate.
The list of his works goes on and on, yet even with h is busy schedule he always allowed time for the youth to meet him. With events like UNIV and World Youth Day, today's youth have been greatly touched by the pontiff. His illnesses and struggles did not even hinder his works until the very last days of his life. He will forever remain in our hearts as a great role model, a great man, and a great Pope.

A place to live in. A place to eat in. A place to study in.. A place of learning. A place of comfort. A place of warmth. A place where we are accepted. A place where we are respected. A place where we are loved. All these are parts of a home. A home called Vancouver College.

At home we are surrounded by family: our parents and siblings. Our parents are there to care for us, to teach us, and to guide us through life. At school, we are met with people who do the same. Everyday, the teachers and staff are there as our parents: caring, teaching, and guiding.

Our siblings are there to compete with us, play with us, and grow with us. Like our teachers, we see our classmates everyday and treat them as we treat our own borthers. Through competition and cooperation, we learn that Vancouver College is not just a school, it is a home. We learn of each others' weaknesses, strengths, and personalities, and in doing so, we grow and mature together as a family.

What sets Vancouver College apart as a home is the sense of responsibilty that everybody holds to each other. Our teachers set the expectations, and our classmates push us to fulfill these expectations. Like a home, the fulfillment of these expectations is a collective effort, and this commitment to each other is what makes Vancouver College a home away from home.

I arrived at VC not really wanting to come; I leave not really wanting to go. I am grateful for the guidance and support of my family, my teachers, and my coaches. At VC I found my passion for the feeling of complete victory that working hard as a team and winning brings. To my friends and team mates on the Irish crew it's been good and we are not finished yet. For eight years I have toiled away at this school building towards an inevitable conclusion. From one façade of completion to the next, I happily go on in life with full knowledge of the hedonistic manner in which we all are obligated to live. I am indebted to my parents, my teachers, my peers and to my God. If anything, Vancouver College has taught me to accept perceived inequities with dutiful compliance. For that I am forever grateful.

It has been a long journey, but finaly it is all over. Thank You all who have supported me throughout these past years: My family, all my friends in and out of College, the teachers, and school staff. I wish all my fellow graduates a bright future and prosperity in all their endevours. Good Luck! Class of 2005!

I'd like to thank the man upstairs for making life @ VC so enjoyable, my parents for making this possible, and my bro. & sis. (gurd especially)... special thanks to the football program (Mr. & Mrs. Bernett) for guiding me in the rite direction. It's been a quick, but memorable 5 years @ VC... great times during football season will forever be cherished (so close to that championship ring!) the crew MS, LN, JS, MY, EP, MT, TH, JD, JM, AK, KT, TM, JE (NCAA2005) _ that line is for anybody I missed... Well I guess this is it, Goodbye VC. High school is finally done and it has been a slice. I'd like to thank all my teachers and coaches over the years as well as my family for all their guidance and support and to the big guy up there in the clouds you're #1. To all my friends (you know who you are) and to all the pretty girls I've met: thanks for making me smile. Well chops, we've made it. Five years of discipline and blundering and now we're finished. Well, finished at least until university starts, then we're back to square one. I must admit there were a lot of good times, especially at the beach. So I'd like to thank all my friends and family, because I would not be the person who I am today without you. Woo ~ Five years! Guess it is time to say goodbye. To people who are leaving the town, good luck. To those who are staying here, may we meet again in the future. Friends are friends, I don't need to mention their names. Although this year is short, it is the best year I ever had. Farewell.

Many times, when people asked, people say their fondest memories come from high school experience. Perhaps, that is because high school students have unlimited possibilities ahead of them. Vancouver College has helped me reach my goal in many ways. As I write this, I do not yet know which university I'll be attending or how I'll be like at the end of the school year 2005, let alone ten or twenty years later. I, however, have an optimistic view of my future, because this is not the end, but just a start.

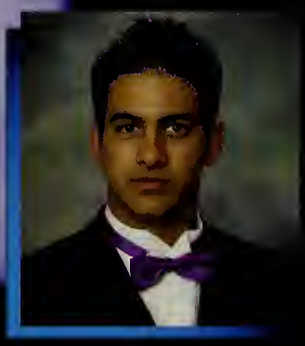
Unending respects to God up above; thx to my family for the tremendous love; thx to this school for keeping in check; to th who supported me when I was a wreck, the past was great an the future may be rough, try not to think about it, it'll comes soon enough; to the club and my friends making times easy to get by, I got rhymes in my write up, I really don't know why, a man of few words, so I'll be on my way. Peace, Love, Respe that's all I gotta say.

I wanna thank my parents. I obviously have the best parents in the world. They give me what I need and what I want. I love you guys so much. Who needs brothers when you have 3 amazing sisters. Thanks Shawna, Tasha, and Neesha for all your love. VC has been good but I'm not sad to be honest. Why lie? There are bigger and better things out there like girls. Friends? The true homeboys know who they are.



I cam to VC in grade 7 and it has been great ever since. Thanks to my parents, teachers and friends for helping me and pushing me when I needed it the most. The years have gone f and I can't believe this is it.

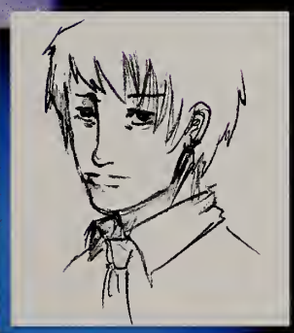
I would like to thank my parents and brothers for their support. To all my friends and the great people I have met, you know who you are. I had some great times throughout my high school career. Snowboarding at Grouse Mountain and Whistler; best times of my life. To all the people from T-Town who have suffered the bus ride to and from VC, I feel your pain. Surround yourself with good people and good things will happen.

t has been a long journey, but finaly it is all over. Thank You to ll who have supported me throughout these past years: My amily, all my friends in and out of College, the teachers, and the chool staff. I wish all my fellow graduates a bright future and rosperity in all their endevours. Good Luck! Class of 2005!



The five year journey is over! thanks to all the people that made my experience at VC what it was. The practices, classes, jokes, games, trips, etc. will never be forgotten. To my family, thank you for the continuous support throughout the years. To the grads, good luck in whatever it is the future holds. Just a reminder before I leave, make sure you get my autograph, I won't give it to you when I'm famous. Time at VC: it was all a dream.

When I first attended VC five years ago, I had nothing but my negative perceptions for my future there. As years went by I got to know the school better, and the people in it. Now, I can honestly say I have no regrets attending VC. It has taught me too much about education and life to put ito words, so I'll leave it at that. Thanks to all who have helped me and challenged me to do better for myself. Goodbye VC and good luck to all the Grads of 2005.

13 Year Men

Twenty-six young boys entered the hallowed halls of Vancouver College for the first time in September 1992, purple sweaters in one hand, parents in the other. Hesitant and shy, they looked at each other, not knowing what lay ahead. Thirteen years later, thirteen of the original twenty-six emerge from the school as the "Thirteen Year Men", armed with that knowledge and connected by a bond that defines Vancouver College: tradition.

The journey of the thirteen year men through Vancouver College has not always been easy. Along the thirteen year path were many obstacles that the young men had to face, some even threatening the unity of the group. Together, they struggled and overcame these obstacles, defying the critics and living up to the name of the Fighting Irish. Vancouver College was much like a second home to these men. From using the Lego bricks in Kindergarten to playing Dodgeball in Cartier Hall in Grade 6, from going to Outdoor School in Grade 7 to going on Encounter in Grade 12, this group of men have endured it all together within the brick walls of Vancouver College and formed a unique relationship that many are unable to comprehend. Able to be found at the forefront of the school's most prestigious organizations, the thirteen year men have represented the spirit of the Fighting Irish admirably. In athletics, in academics, and in spirtuality, these young men have left an indelible mark on the school, leaving behind a trail that only a few are able to follow.

Thirteen years after their arrival at Vancouver College, Stanley, Giordano, Christopher, Teddy, Camillus, Desmond, Alvin, Thomas, Derrick, Laurence, Spencer, David, and Nicholas will leave the school in June 2005, realizing that they have not only learned together, but also grown together as members of the Fighting Irish community. As the thirteen young men prepare to embark on other journeys in life, they will remember how they forged a strong relationship in the face of adversity and came out unified, preserving the tradition of Vancouver College - together. Senior School

We are the oldest brothers of the family. Confident and more experienced, we embrace our new responsibilities with eager arms. We know our place in the home: role models to our siblings and protectors of our family. We take on these challenges grudgingly, knowing that we have another life to live. Ironically, this life connects us with our younger siblings. This is a life where we must continue to nurture our dreams and discover ourselves. Our time of learning is not over, as we come to know over our final years in our adopted home. Our last years at home are accompanied with a sense of freedom as our parents expose us to a facet of life without them. We make quick strides towards maturity and independence with the new found freedom, knowing that even if we fail, there are always people at home to help us.

Our lives are able to be compared to the image of a duck swimming in water. The surface is calm, yet underneath the water, our legs are constantly moving. Our search for our own path is not over, and it becomes even harder as our lives quickly approach the beginning of adulthood and the world outside. Society calls us to conform, but this contradicts our own principle of being unique. This balance between conforming and rebelling is what defines our last years in our home. We unknowingly leave a path for others to follow through our ability to handle all facets of our lives.

Class of 2006 Grade 11

Over half of our senior years have past, and in this time of dimmng light, we look on to another day, one hopefully as glorious and prosperous as the ones before. With one year remaining, it is hard not to feel the mixed emotions toward leaving high school. To many, the environment of Vancouver College has presented students with a home away from home. However it is on this stage we have the opportunity to build upon the foundation given by our education. However, even through this optimistic appeal, the shadow that is high school will forever remain as a pleasant memory. As role models, we find ourselves obligated to behave with a sense of profession. It is not enough just to take the education we've been given and leave. It is more substantial to leave a standard of excellence in both academics and athletics so those who follow us can strive for it. We voluntarily leave our legacy in the hands of those who follow so they can write their own. If we have done this, then we are men that can sit in dusk without regret, looking forward to a new day. Vancouver College has sheltered us and contributed to the construction of a strong foundation on which we will build our dream. As we depart, we will never forget that which is home, that which is Vancouver College.

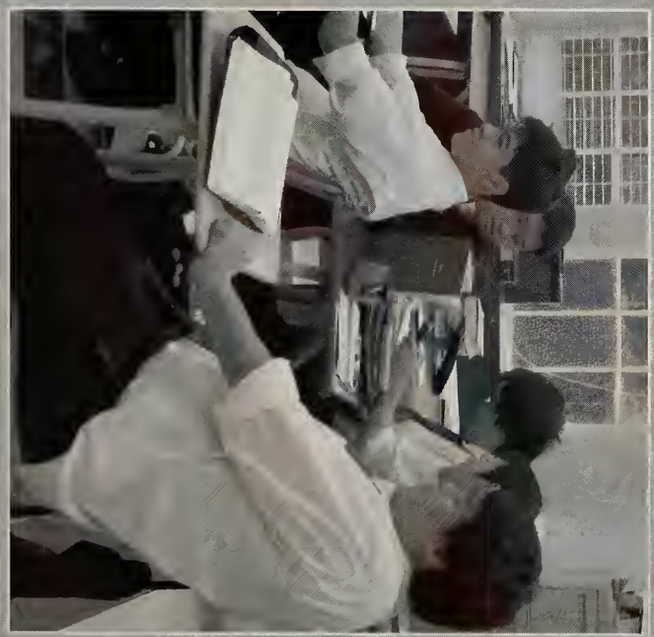
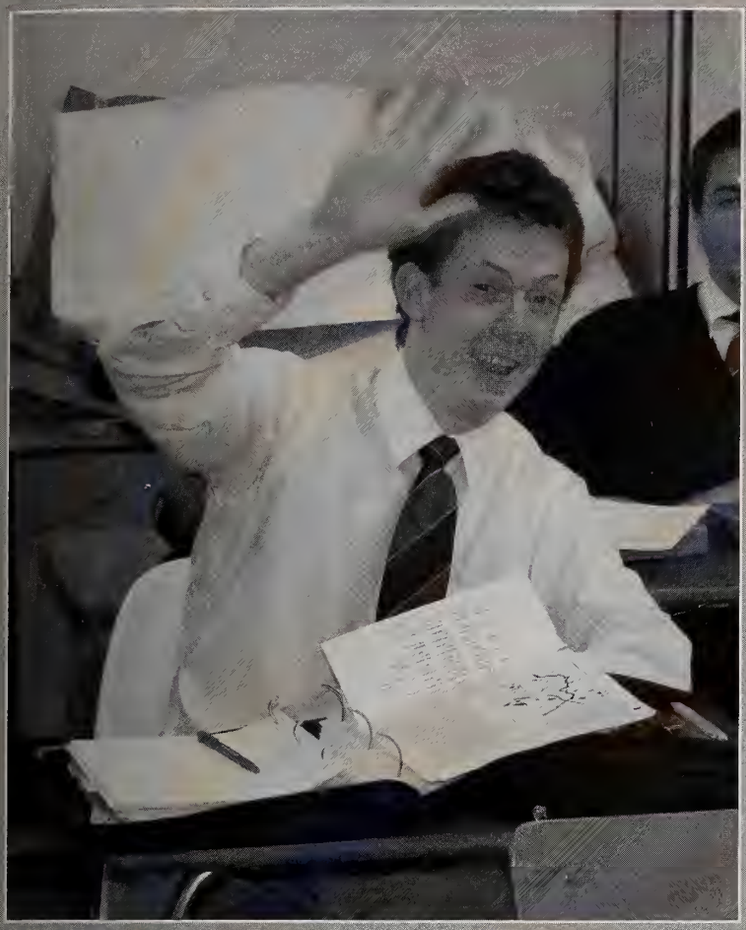
Grade 11 Life





Class of 2007 Grade 10

We are on the brink of real life. Life starts after grade 10, more specifically grade 11. Liff after this year becomes more unforgiving and second chances are a thing of the past. Grade Ten is not something you can encapsulate in a single paragraph. To do so would be an injustice to the ten months we have endured and perspired in, yet enjoyed and reveled in. But we can try our best.

We are the middle men of our generation, a class of men still trying to find ourselves in block A, B, and C. Each day brings hardship, another trial, and exerting tasks we must do. Ultimately, this year has been no different. With the new requirements imposed on the students in our grade, it makes school life just a bit more challenging. But like life, we do many things we do not like to do. The grade 10 class of 2005 is surely a testament to that statement.

If anything in the whole experience of "planning 10" has taught us to tolerate discomfort and agony life gives us. But Vancouver College has trained us well, and we well equipped for rainy days. Alongside these hardships also comes the thrill of triumph and the elation of overcoming challenges we so grequently come across. In the fury of progression, these are the things that define who we are and sculpt our character.

As our days of wandering the Vancouver College halls pass us by, we may come to realize that the greatest things we discover in grade 10 are not words in books, but the lessons in life. In the implacably ovservant eyes of change, we have matured and grown into the men we now are today. With two years under our belt and two years remaining, we recall the unparalleled memories and the friends who took part in forging our memories. Perhaps the greatest thing we can take from Vancouver College is that now will never come again.

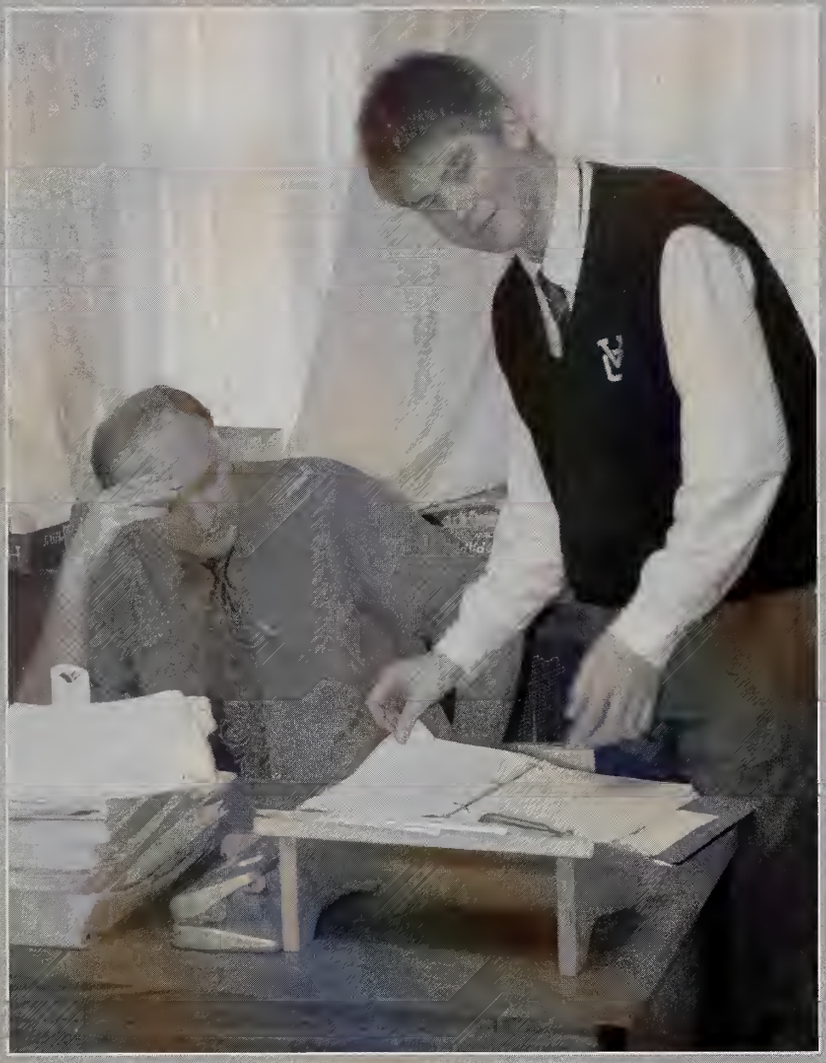
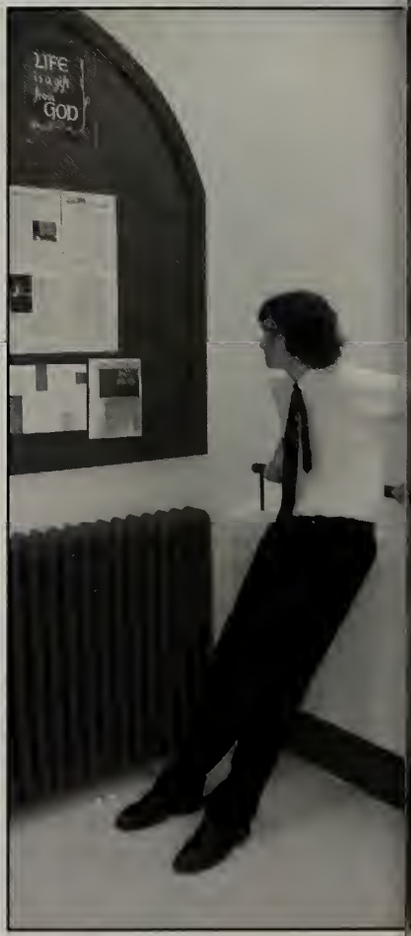
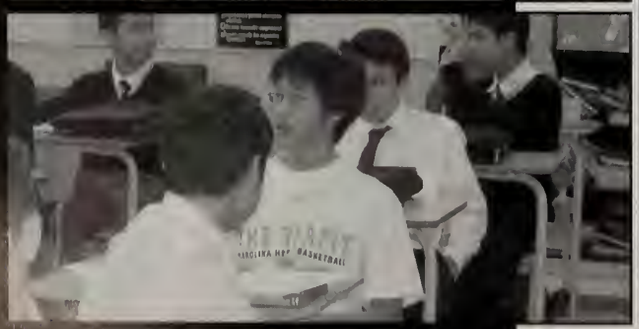
Grade 10 Life

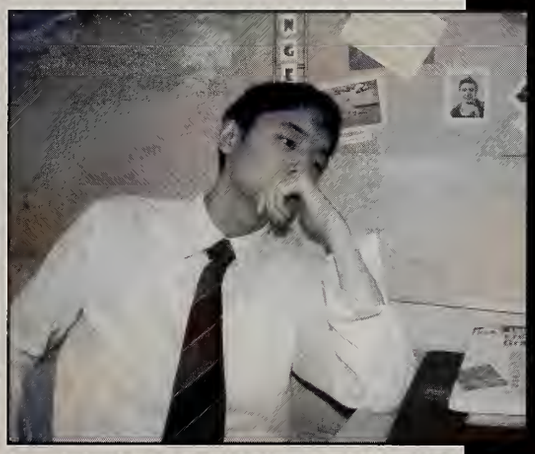


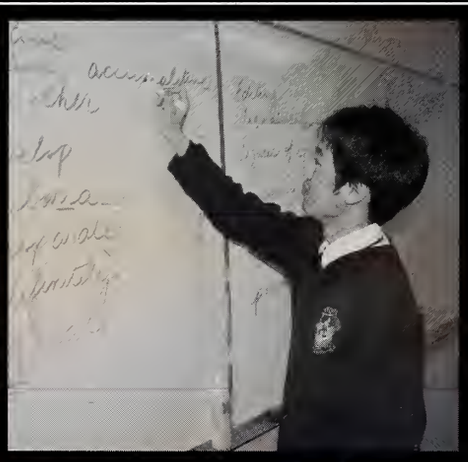
Senior

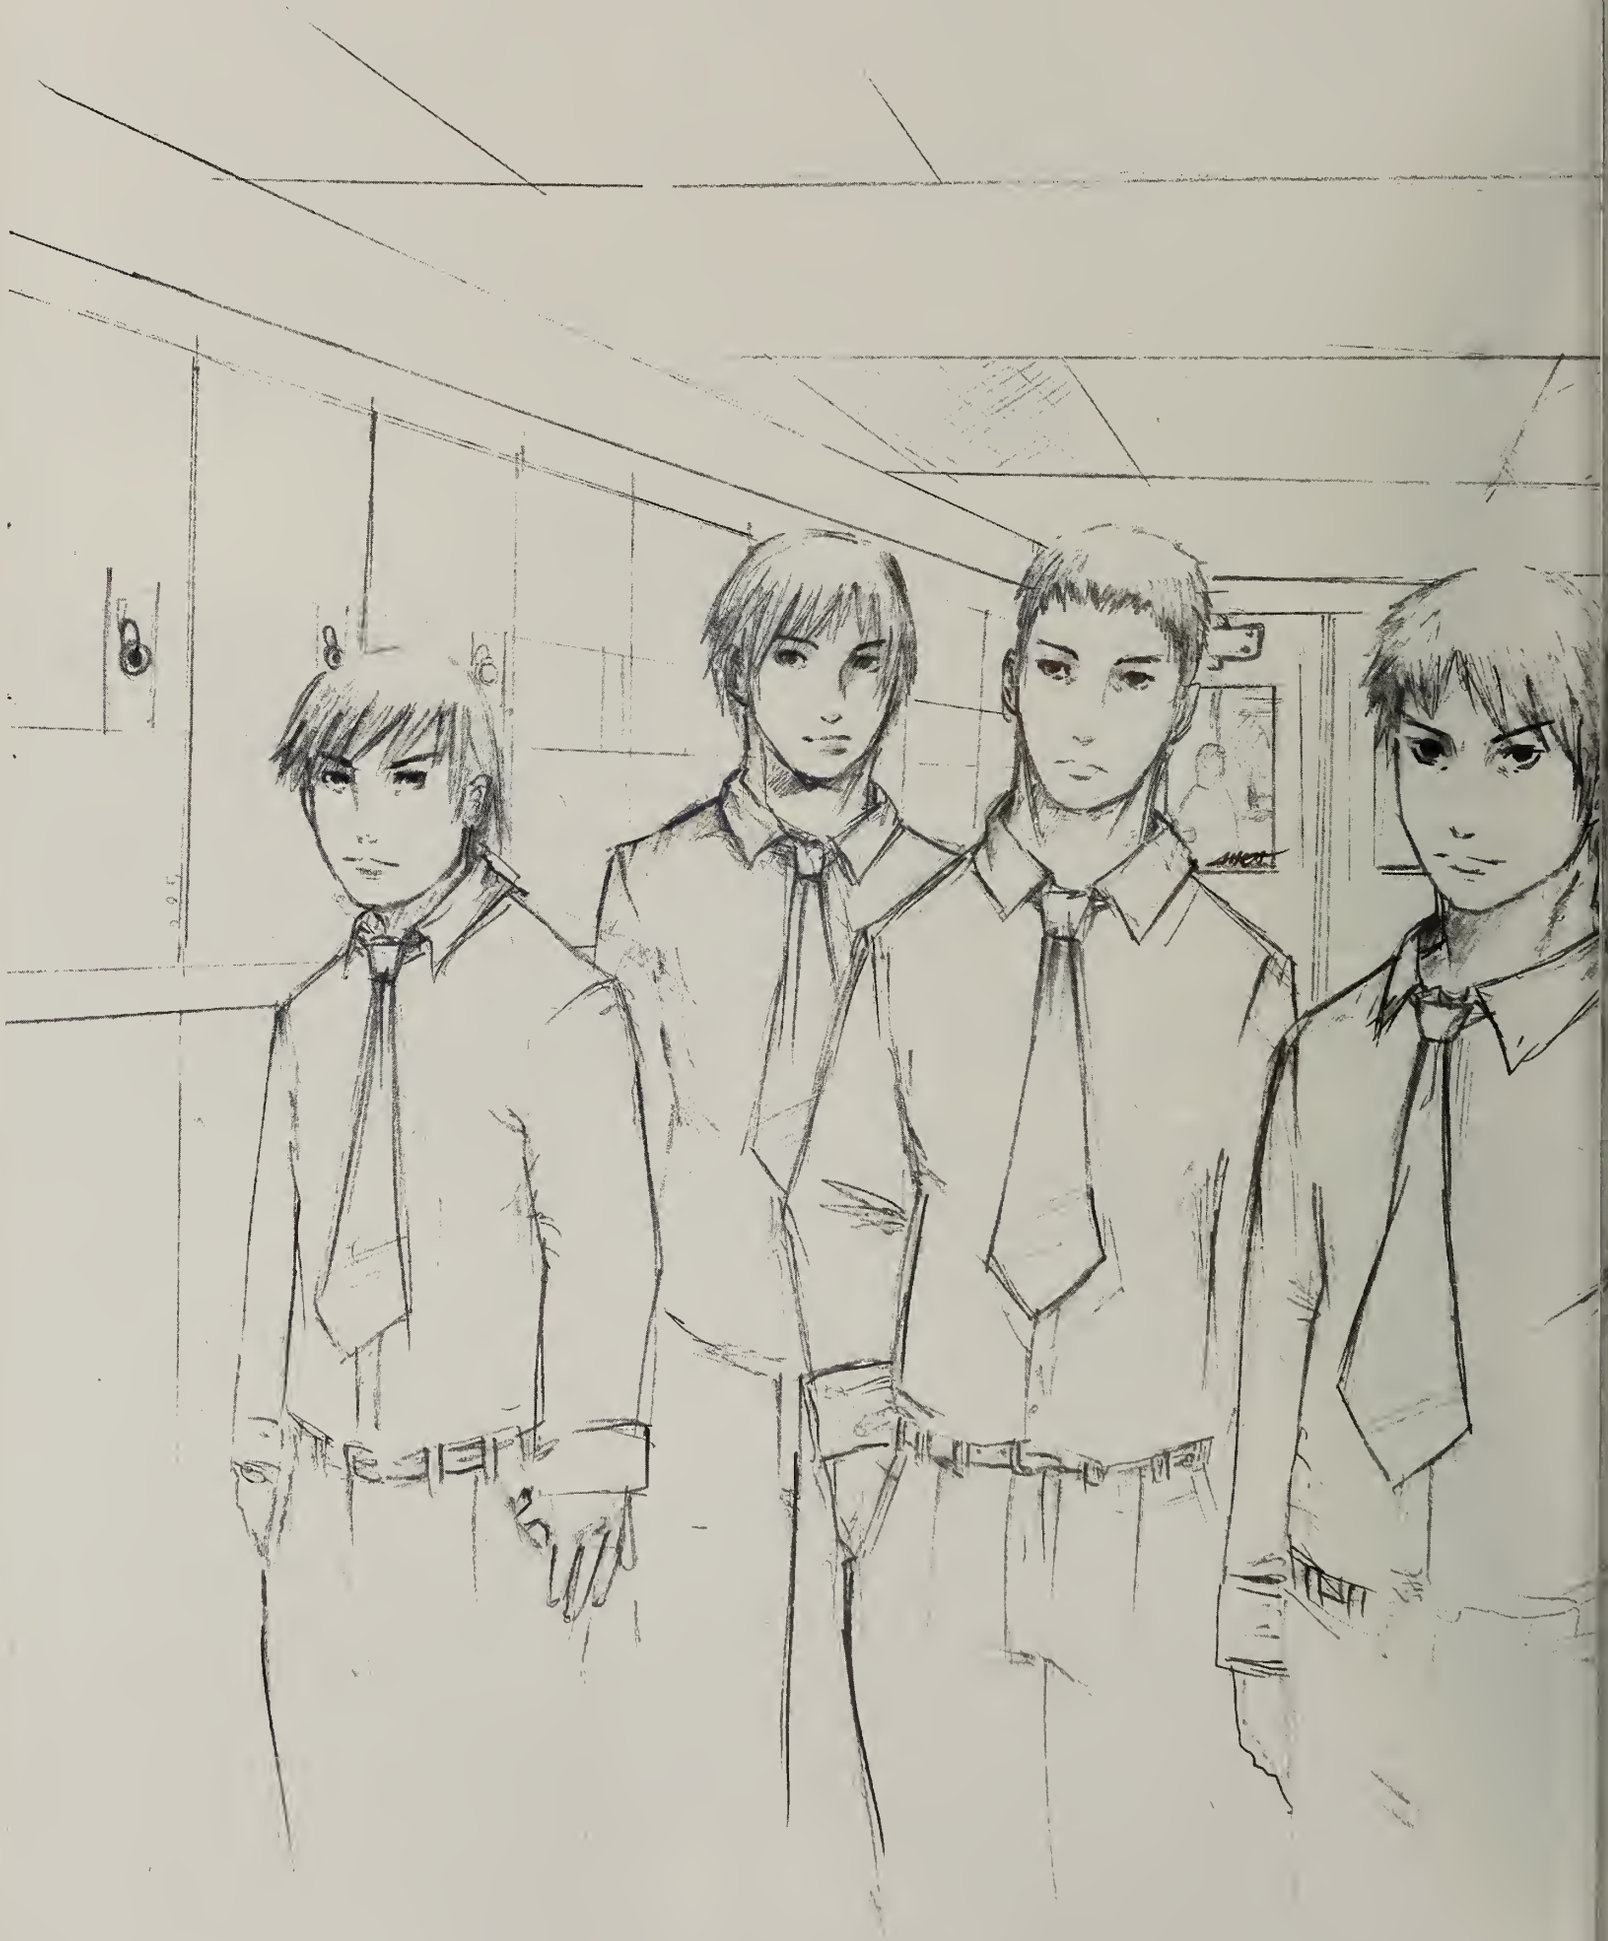




School







Middle School

We are the middle children of the family. Bold, fearless, and strong, we charge forward without even knowing ourselves. In our constant search for the truth, we shrug off the advice of our family and friends, choosing to learn through experience. We experiment in our relationships, trying to find an approach that suits both us and others. We pay no attention to the others' criticism of adolescence, only knowing that what we are doing is right. Not the oldest nor the youngest, we still do not know our place in our home. Through interactions with our sibilings, we are able to find ourselves.

We battle with this period of transition every day. One half wishes to be treated as an adult; the other half longs for the attention we had when we were children. Through our adolescent antics, we realize that the time of being the youngest children of the family is over. As young men, we struggle to find our independence from our teachers and parents. Our desire to choose for ourselves compels us to find our own path, instead of looking for the path that is often traveled.

Class of 2008 Grade 9

Grade 9 has certainly been an interesting grade for all of us. THis is the year we take on the responsibility of leading the middle school, being the oldes students to walk the halls on the second floor. THis is a year where we become familiar with the new faces who have entered into our school, and forge the friendships that will hopefully last a lifetime. Caught between the freshness of Grade 8 and the responsibilities of Grade 10, this is a year with plenty of opportunities. This is the first year where we have exams, and although that does not exactly seem like an exciting prospect, we realize that we are growing up, and cannot act like children anymore. This is a period of transition, and we look forward to the inevitable change that will happen to all of us in Grade 9.

Class of 2009 Grade 8

Grade 8 is a new year for many of us. Away from the school we have become so familiar with over the past seven years, Vancouver College is a symbol of a new beginning. New friendships are made, new realizations are made, and we enjoy it. We enjoy the totally new experience, from playing on the football team to playing in the school band, there is nothing we cannot do. and we understand our place in this school. Undeterre by our unfamiliariity with Vancouver College, we charge forward with the guidance of the teachers, and bond together as a grade. Grade 8 is a new beginning for all of us, and we know this year will be awesome.

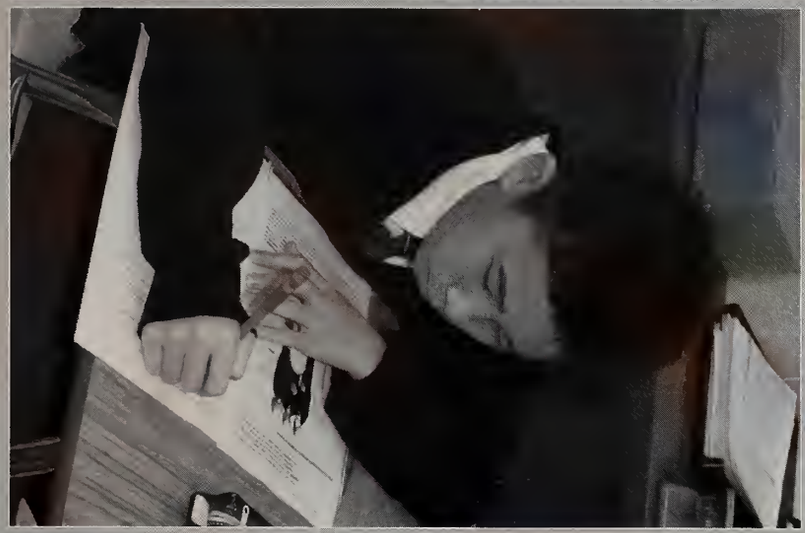
Grade 08 Life



Class of 2010 Grade 7

Grade Seven is certainly a different experience. Gone are the purple sweaters that defined our existence during our stay in elementary school and we are, in a sense, the youngest brothers, of the middle and senior schools. There are many new faces this year and the class schedule is also different from what we are used to. However, we got to know each other over the course of the year, and with the help of teachers such as Mrs. Ottnad and Mr. Tagulao, we were able to learn the meaning of unity and make new friends. One of the first chances we had this year was at the North Vancouver Outdoor School at Brackendale, where we spent a couple of days learning, and more importantly, getting to know each other. That was an enjoyable experience, and hopefully, we will have more memories to look back on this year.

Elementary School

We are the youngest children of the family. Innocent and carefree, we spend our time living our dreams: being a superhero, being a sports star, or just being grown up. Unaware of our vast potential, we live life in the moment. Sitting in class, learning Math, English, and Science, we realize that we are part of something bigger than ourselves. We know we are a part of a family, yet we do not understand the value of it. We know we belong to a family, yet we do not know our role in it. We know our family loves us, yet we do not know why. Being the youngest in the family, we are only expected to laugh and learn.

But we are more intelligent than we seem. We can do things that people thought were previously impossible. Due to our inquistive nature, our imagination is without boundaries. Fostered by our loving home, our imagination is allowed to run wild, and we are encouraged to be ourselves. We are the future of this home, continuing in the footsteps of our older brothers. In doing so, we create our own distinctive legacy.

Class of 2011

Grade 6

This is our final year in elementary school, and we realize the responsibility that we have taken as the leaders of the elementary. As Grade Sixes, we are respected, and we are expected to be good role models for the younger students. Under the guidance of teachers like Mr. G, Mrs. Kavalec, and Madame Vernier, we come into our own and we find out that there is more to life than just recess and lunch Between games of dodgeball and math lessons, this is a year where we, as classmates, come together as a class and learn the values of cooperation and teamwork. Grade Six has been a great year so far, and we look forward to the rest of our last year in elementary school.

Grade 5 Class of 2012

Grade 5 is the best! We have the coolest teacher, Bro. Conti, and he brings in all these animals that we have in class like: birds, rabbits, crickets, and a lot of other animals too. Even though we have to do homework, we play a lot of games in class, like Geography Challenge, which is really fun. Most of us play on the basketball team and we also have a class president. Bro. Conti is really interesting and we do a lot of interesting things in class, like about the Greek gods and Michaelangelo the painter who painted the Sistine Chapel. Grade 5 has been really fun and certainly different.

Vancouver College is like a second home to me for so many great reasons. Like my home, the school gives me a sense of family. My teacher is like a parent and my classmates are like my brothers. By spending a lot of time together, we work, play, and have fun learning new things every day. We even eat our meals together. As a team, we accomplish many things with responsibility and great respect for each other. In both my homes, God is always a part of us, making us feel safe and secure. Vancouver College is a special part of my life and I thinik of it as my second home.

Grade 3

Grade 3 is great. We are the oldest students of the primary school (that means Kindergarten to Grade 3), and as a result, we are expected to be a good example for the younger students. We do lots of cool things in Grade 3, but we also have more homework too. But it isn't so bad. We're all friends and that makes Grade 3 fun.

Class of 2015 Grade 2

We are the students of Grade 2. We are seeing things in a new perspective. Everything appears to be so alive. We daydream about Bugs Bunny, our favourite cartoon character, as we lay back and enjoy one of the many Harry Potter books. Every now and then, visions of blasting rock and roll music while driving a flashy Dodge Viper permeate our minds during our most beloved math class. However, we always complete our homework because we like to spend the rest of our evenings playing finger-numbing games on our GameCubes. When we engage in a good game of hockey with our friends, we attempt to emulate the moves of the Vancouver Canucks, especially the actions of the highly respected Todd Bertuzzi. We are discovering many new things each and every day.

Kindergarten is fun. We are only beginning to discover the many sides of life. We spend our joyous hours not only playing at centers, but also discovering the diverse scintillating aspects of school life. We develop an attachment for the lively SpongeBob SquarePants and the fun-loving Joe from Blues Clues and a love for rock and roll music. Being the music lovers that we are, we also enjoy the various smashing hits of the Monkees and the Beetles. Before the day is done, we like to play a couple games on our Gameboy Advances before arranging a meeting with the sandman. While we are flying to the stars of dreamland, we fantasize about our future blue Honda Accords, and we dream about the paths we will take in this journey of life that is now presently laid before us.

O.L.P.H. Sharing Our Community

It was very unfortunate news to the whole community, finding out that Our Lady of Perpetual Help Elementary School was set ablaze. The school suffered major water and structural damage, and was deemed unsafe leaving the school, its staff and about 400 students with nowhere else to go. Temporarily, OLPH have decided to gather in VC's gym, wrestling room, alumni room, and also in St. Peter and Paul's Cartier Hall. It became quite the challenge trying to fit so many students in the Vancouver College Campus, yet in that challenge was the light of meeting new faces and welcoming them in our faith and learning community. These new faces and addition to our community was truly a wonderful thing and it truly showed the universality of the church and its teachings. Our communities became one the months that they stayed with us, and we truly hope that we have showed them a true Irish welcome, and as well a good time during their stay.

Sports

Camaraderie, unity, and devotion: the words that define our Vancouver College sports programs. Through the battles that we face on the field, on the court, or the water, we athletes develop a brotherhood, a bond that connects all of us. We know our place in the home. We are the upholders of the Irish tradition and pride on the playing field, the defintion of dedication in the family. Struggling through the early-morning practices, the practices at night and during the holidays, we strive to give the Irishmen something to be proud of. It is more than just a game, more than the sport we play; it is a lesson in life.

Varsity FootBall

Personal growth and evolving teamwork were hallmarks for this year's Varsity Football Team. The season kicked off with two games south of the border. There would be over three thousand people in attendance in the town of Ferndale, Washington. Playing a game of this caliber gave the Irish a glimpse of real American football. The Irish would lose this game but not go home unsatisfied as memories were made. The remainder of the season was favorable as the Irish beat the reigning Provincial champions, St. Thomas More. The Irish would find themselves behind with 1:53 left in the game; however, they scored in the dying seconds to win the game. This was a turning point in the season as it showed that this Varsity team could unite and beat even the toughest odds. The Irish made a trip to Campbell River where they beat Timberline. They beat Notre Dame at Burnaby Lake reclaiming the coveted Archbishop's Cup. After an exciting playoff run, the Irish found themselves in the Provincial Finals playing the highest ranked team in BC, Rick Hansen. The Irish would not go down without a fight as they fought to the bitter end of the game, taking the lead with a touchdown with 2:24 left. However, the Irish could not hold on as Rick Hansen scored in the final minute to take the championship. Failure was not the feeling after the game as everyone shared gratitude for the accomplishment towards which each player contributed. The season was a growth experience for each player and could not have been more exciting as this team showed everybody that they kept the fight in the Irish.

This school year's addition of JV players never at one point failed to carry on the tradition and strength of which VC is known for. Battling injury after injury, loss after loss, the group rallied together into a force destined to win the finals.

Inspired by last year's provincial title, as well as the dedication and determination of Coach Choo, Burke, Rogers, Cordick, and others, the JV team brought to every game an undeterred strength, held together by a powerful bond, of young men. Led by their grade 10 captains, the JVs shook the very foundations of the province. Overcoming every challenge that came before them, whether loss or injury, they built up a reputation and a skill capable of matching any team in the province.

Such power in both offense and defence was led by both strength and knowledge in the skill of Andrew B/Scorda/O'brian/Uy/Dueckman/Mackin/Kour/Domingo/Sroka/Martinka/Patterson, and many others who put God, teamwork, and tradition before all else.

This year's group has definitely earned their place in VC's history as one of the most feared and spirited. May the flame of VC's football never die out in the years to come.

-Eric Uy

Grade 8 FootBall

The Gr. 8 football team began practicing during the last week of August 60 players strong. They all had the same goal: to win the Provincial Championship. With a strong commitment from both the players and the coaching staff, the team began to take shape. Despite a number of injuries to some of the team's key players, the team made it to BC Place to compete against the Knights of Saint Thomas More Collegiate in the Championship Final.

The team was a pleasure to coach and the players were willing to do whatever it took to make the team successful. A huge thank you must be given to our coaching staff: Mr. B. Slobidian, Mr. D. Pauls, Mr. M. McKay, Mr. R. DesLauriers, and Mr. C. Marincat. They were instrumental in mentoring these young boys into young men whose first experience to Vancouver College was such a positive experience.

Varsity Basketball

Throughout the 2004-2005 basketball season, th team encountered obstacles necessary to overcome. Bu regardless of knowing the difficult tasks at hand, we wer into every game ready, like soldiers going into battle.W knew we had to simply work hard, play to our potentia and utilize our skills in order to accomplish our goals. Bu as we were running on the court, adversity was chasin us close behind and eventually caught up to us. Being h with the flu and the injury bug greatly affected the tean because "Six Players" just wouldn't do it. But once ou team became healthy, we were a talented unit of twelv that would "play hard, play smart and play together… right!?" And although our season did not exactly g according to plan, we have many people to thank: th dedicated coaches, generous parents, hardworking stuf and of course, the ruckus fans of VC. Thanks again, t everyone that came out to support us throughout th year and made sacrifices to make this season a specia one.

Grade 9 & 8

Basketball

Always consistent, the Vancouver College Grade 9 Basetball team posted another stellar season, going 29-3 in all their games and winning the provincial championship. It was a memorable season, as the Grade 9's dominated their opponents, and placed 3rd in Vancouver College's very own Emerald Teournament and 1st in the Holy Cross Basketball Tournament in Saskatoon. Special thanks go out to the coaches and players who made this season a truly special one.

The grade 8 basketball team consists of two teams: the Purple and the Gold. The Purple team was coached by Mr. Hardy. Mr. Scrubb, and Mrs. Bradstock. On the other hand, the Gold team was coached by Mr. Henderson, Ms. Mcknight, Ms. McGuinn and sponsored by Mrs. McKnight. For provincial action, the two teams combined and was lead to a third place seed by Mr. Hardy, Mr. Scrubb, and Mr. Henderson. This successful season would not have happened without the many players, supportive parents, and dedicated coaches. A season well played.

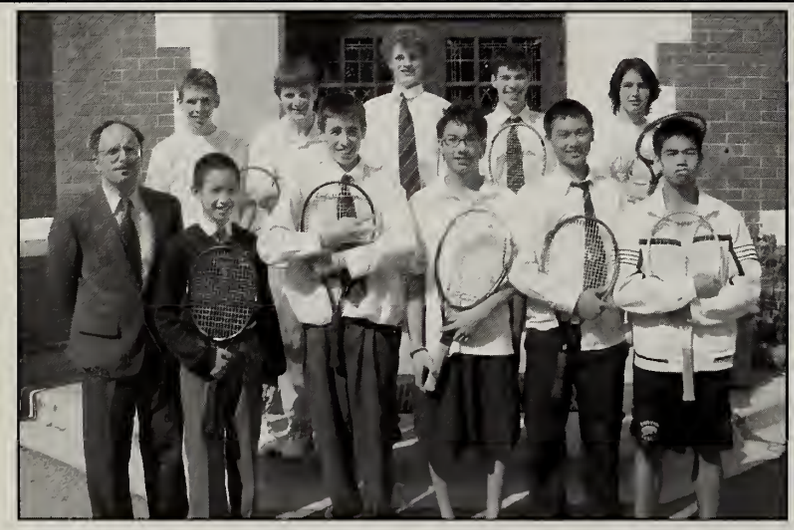
This year's version of the Fighting Irish wrestling squad managed to place in the top 10 at Provincials for the 4th consecutive year. Also home to the top ranked grade eight team in the province, the future is bright for Vancouver Colege Wrestling. At the first "exhibition" meet of the season, the young team garnered an unprecedented 70% winning record. However, with a late start to the season and an unfortunate rash of injuries to many of the wrestlers, the Irish seemed to stumble out of the gate. In typical Irish style, the team fought through adversity, claiming the schoolboy championships at a major Port Alberni meet. The team showed no signs of slowing down, with six wrestlers qualifying for Provincials. With two medals at the Provincial Championships, Vancouver College clawed its way over 170 schools into the top ten. With enormous potential and developed talent left on the team for next year, you can rest assured that next year's team will be just as exciting and tough.

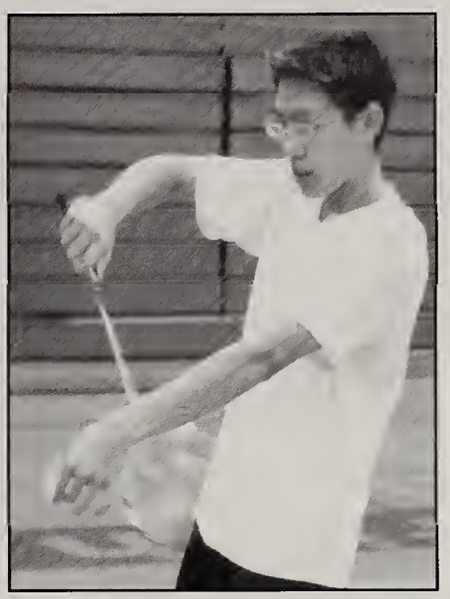
-Joseph Vernier

WRESTLING



With the leadership of Mr. Henry Budai, the Irish Tennis team sets off their season with the cup in mind. The return of the many veterans and the addition of new talents there are high hopes for a very successful season filled with many experiences. The combination of VC/LFA is truly one to watch, as the whole tennis team journeys through the season, the provincial and finally end at the desired destination: the podium.

TENNIS



Vancouver College/ Little Flower Academy has seldom made appearances at the B.C. Championships for badminton. In the 31st year of being a sanctioned B.C. School sport, 183 teams were fielded. In spite of a grueling 8 month season and a prohibitive league playoff structure, our under-aged squad qualified to contest the crown for the second time in 3 years through a 9-1 regular reason and playoffs record.

At the provincial tournament in Victoria, the underdog Irish and Angels splayed over 10 hours of badminton in 2 days to claw out of the round of 16, defeating last year's champions from Cambie as well as runners-up from Burnett along the way. By that point the athletes were running only on faith and enthusiasm... of exceeding all expectations and having made it to the final for the first time in both schools' histories!

Thanks go out to all of the players' supportive families and LFA sponsor Debbie Smallwood. Congratulations to heralded captain and star-spangled letterman Derrick Ng, the undefeated phenom and national champion Bosco Kwok, youngsters Dominick Yeung, Herman Ho and Adam Jang, new members Eldrich Chua, Alwin Ocampo and David Le, and graduating starters Clayton Li and Francis Wong for unforgettable memories along this great journey. All the Hardship then is part of the happiness now. And beyond all of that- semper fidelis

BADMINTON

Led by our fearless leaders such as Coach Devenport, O'Loughlin and Penn, the 2005 Fighting Irish Track & Field team fell nothing short of domination, yet again. The team comprised of soldiers of all sorts: short and tall, light and heavy, fast and slow, rookies and veterans. However, it did not matter what their physique and experience was, but the size of their heart and dedication to this strenuous sport. Hours were spent, blood was shed, sweat was poured and tears were dropped, all in effort to make it another banner year. As the season went on, all that time in the weightroom and on the thing we call a track seemed to have paid off as it helped the athletes to reach their potential and rise above higher limits. We were good, we were well coached, and whether we were throwing, jumping, or running, we stopped at nothing to strike fear into the eyes of the opponent and take home that gold medal. In the end, it was always the purple and gold on top, thus making it another memorableyear. Veni, Vedi, Vici.

Volleyball Gr 5,6 & 7

The Elementary School Volleyball teams had, once again, another fierce, yet, fun season! The younger players, new to the game, learned the basics of bumping, volleying, and even some spiking. Those who have already played have begun to work as a team with unity and co-ordination! Giving up numerous hours honing their skills in the game, they always keep improving. Well done, boys!

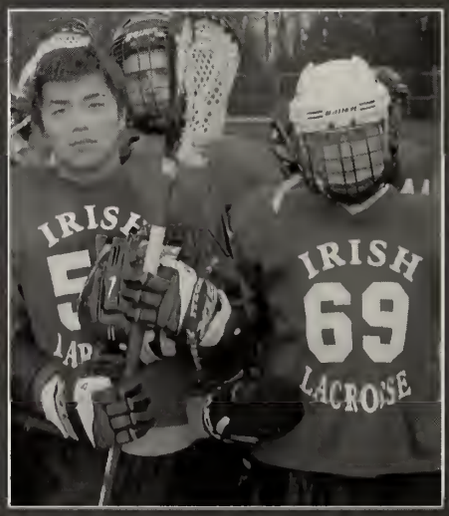
Vancouver College Lacrosse entered the 2004-2005 season in league competition for the first time in the school's proud sports history. There weren't many new faces; veterans from a year ago made up the core of the team. This group knew what was expected of them and recognized that it was their last year together. With the experience of last year, the players fought hard and played every game as if it was their last. Not for lack of effort, they fell short of victory on most occasions. The team was riddled with injuries and unfortunate circumstances which hindered the performance of the players. However, those star players who couldn't participate in games shone as a beacon of inspiration for the team. Everyone picked up the slack where needed, especially the veteran-star goalie, David Soo Chan, who played for both junior and senior teams with an injured knee. Special thanks to the coaches Adam, Tim, and Elliot and co-ordinator Jim Canil. Best of luck to the future of VC Lacrosse.



LACROSSE

2004-2005 witnessed the inaugural season of Irish hockey, a season that consisted of 7 practices and featured 3 games against the St. George's Saints. With plenty of heart, 30 scrappy players from Middle school clawed their way to a 1-1-1 record, and kept the games exciting and fun. Under Head Coach Mr. Enzo Nardi, Vancouver College brought the Irish spirit to the ice and showed that althought there is still some work to be done, next year's team will be just as exciting, if not more, as this year's.

HOCKEY

Cross-Country

The 2004-2005 Cross Country Season proved to be another success for the Fighting Irish, as they trained vigorously under the tutelage of Coach Penn and Be. O'Loughlin during their daily practices. Despite the damp and cold fall weather, the team stuck it out, and through it all, became warriors of the trails. Without acclaimation and glory, this year's edition of the Cross Country team showed its mettle and gives Vancouver College a reason to continue its support for this tenacious group of runners.

ULTIMATE

It has been the first time Vancouver College and Little Flower Academy has had an Ultimate team since 1995. All the athletes have been enthusiastic since day 1. The majority of the team is inexperienced, but each day they show improvement. The players share laughter and good times, and together the team strives to win. Special thanks go to Ms. Shellee Rogers, our coach, and Mrs. Jenny McKnight for making it possible. Thanks also go to our manager Nick Yu for coming to each game and practice, always available to play if we are short on players.

Under the continued guidance of Coach Larry Olson, the Vancouver College Golf team improves after each swing on the golf course. Several talented players make the core of this team and as the team works on the fundamentals, the team gets closer to victory, and this can only mean that Vancouver College will be a force to be reckoned with at the links in the near future.

GOLF

The Vancouver College Swim Team consists of Desmond Lam (team captain), Inaki Gomez, Dustin Lam, Marc Servais, and Daryn Lam. This team trains long hours throughout the year with their respective swim clubs. However, for only two meets, they all swim together to represent Vancouver College. A gold and a silver medal were won at the Provincial Championships this year.

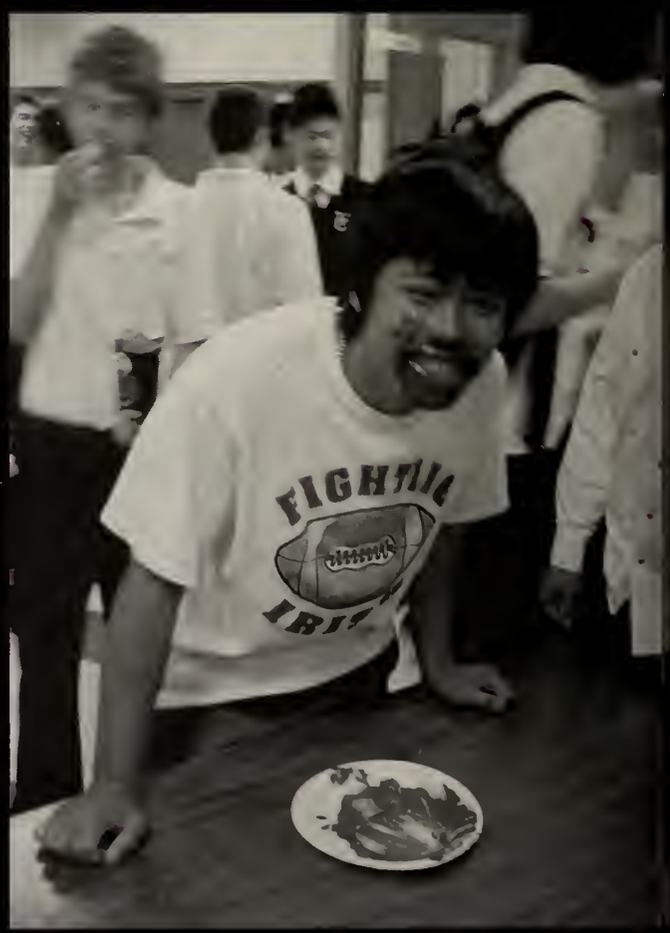
Events

A family can only become closer if it spends time together. Like home, Vancouver College comes together as a community at school events, bonding together for liturgies, pep rallies, assemblies, ceremonies, and other special events scattered throughout the school year. These events promote unity and belonging, reaching out to even the black sheep of our family. With the guidance of teachers as parents, these events provide the students an opportunity to be together: a family outing. Feelings of familiarity, love, solidarity, and pride are feelings that are able to be found at the core of these events. Driven by our devotion to our family, we are able to contribute our own talents to each unique event. These events nurture more than just a faith and learning community; these events nurture a home, the home of Vancouver College.

Spirit Week

The Irish spirit continues as we hold another week to show our pride. Spirit Week was held near the end of October with countless events! The pep rally was filled with cheers, motivation, and pride. During lunches, students, hungry and daring, were chosen by the homeroom in middle and senior schools to see who can eat pudding the fastest without the use of their hands. For the price of a quarter, students were given a chance to vote to choose the new Finnegan Idol. During the week, students proved their spirit by proudly wearing our school colours. The week ended with stronger unity, pride, and energy



"Beat'em! Bust'em! Thats Our Custom Fight! Irish Fight!"

"Ooo! Ahh! Irish on the Warpath!"

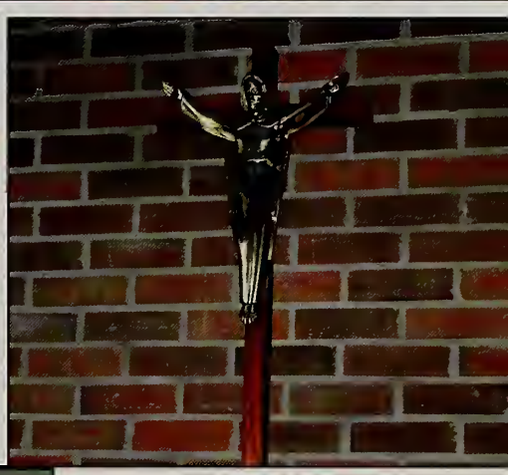
Encounter

Encounter is exactly that, an encounter. It is an encounter with God, yourself, and others. It is an experience over a weekend that lasts in your heart and mind forever. Upon arriving at the venue, the aura and atmosphere is completely transformed. There is nothing quite like it, and with the help of Brother Newman, Mrs. Beltgens, and the whole Encounter team, many candidates were able to receive a very enlightening and memorable experience. Encounter brings the sense of home, our true happiness and trust, a place where people feel safe. This Encounter experience varies with each person, for it is an encounter with God, yourself and others, a learning experience preparing you for the real world. With openness and a commitment to follow, these candidates leave the weekend with a new mission: to spread the love, the lessons, and the home atmosphere that is Encounter.



Retreat

Everyone needs some time to relax and forget about the busy week of studies and homework and this is accomplished through one event that happens once in a blue moon: VC dances. All the students from grade eight to grade twelve come under the roof of the gymnasium to let loose and experience a surreal experience for four hours. With guests from LFA, CHS, YHS, and any other invited girls from various schools, the gym is packed with a sea of bodies. As the music blares on and lasers and colourful lights light the gym, the students are bound to see strangers, meet new people, and reacquaint themselves with old friends. At the end of the night, when the clean-up crew is read to tackle the tremendous work, everyone feels the euphoria of VC dances -- the perfect way to spend the night with friends.

The asnnual Mayfair at Vancouver College is a testament to an entire year of hard work. Sudents, parents and teachers come together to prepare for and host this expansive undertaking. Dress Down Days thoughout the school year are the primary means for the collection of goods for the Mayfair. From clothing to baked goods or books to sportiing goods, it is definitely a community effort towards the success of the Mayfair. The real dedication is shown by those who log enless hours the night befor mayfair, setting up all the rides, oths, displays and decorations. The down of Mayfair Saturday is marked with the arrival of peple at a school transformed into a fairground. Classrooms have been transformed into stores, where you can buy chemistry textbooks for one dollar. People stroll and browse through the marketplace while children play games and go on the rides. The smells of ultiethnic cuisine from the breezeway slivates the mouth. Everyone leaves happily and fulfilled as the massive clean-up begins. Clases are only a day away. The sun sets over the fairgrounds leaving yet another significant memento in the story of Vancouver College.

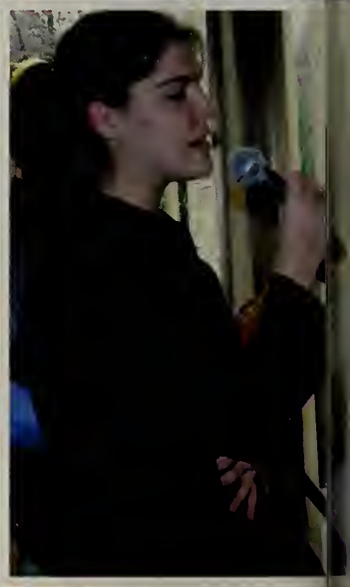
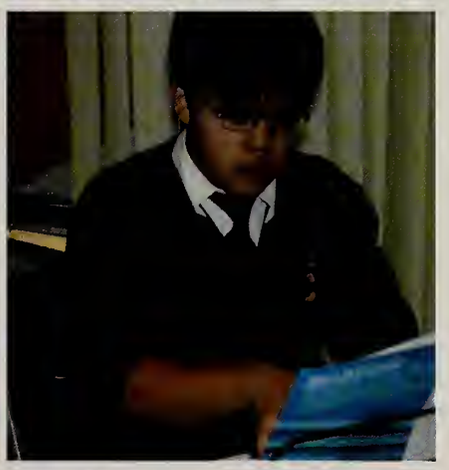
Mother's Tea Party

Being a thirteen year man, I was summoned to serve at the annual Mother's Tea Party. Dressed to the nines for the occasion, I was completely decked out in a white dress shirt, purple bowtie and cumberbun, white gloves, black dress pants, and black dress shoes. For the reason that I am at the service of so many honourable Mother's, I willingly allowed frenzies of highly respected women to swarm the sushi, sandwiches, and potstickers that I presented to them. As they ate to their delight, the mothers socialized with other fellow mothers, tried their luck at the silent auction, and enjoyed the cherubic entertainment. Despite the fact that I was thoroughly tired by the end of the day, I took pleasure in being at the disposal of the mothers.





EXIT

Grads & Dads

In the fall of 2004, the graduates of 2005 were given an oppurtunity to renew and strengthen their relationships with their fathers at the annual Grads and Dads Dinner, a tradition that is treasured at Vancouver College. With good food and good guest speakers, the sons and their fathers were able to relate to each other during the evening, fulfilling the objective of this event, that is, developing the relationship between father and son. Each speaker related to their own experiences with their fathers and imparted words of wisdom to the graduates. It was an evening enjoyed by all, and as the evening turned into night, the graduates left the country club with a strengthened relationship with their fathers.

Pre-Grad Night

The second annual VC Pregrad was a definite success thanks to the dedication of the Grad Committee members including Mike Infante and Derrick Ng. Friday, March 11 was certainly an evening to remember, with the MV Harbour Princess taking over sixty couples for a cruise along the Lower Mainland. Many danced through the night on the main deck, fully equipped with a professional DJ from VC. Others spent some time on the outdoor deck - a romantic sensation of being together. There were food and drinks, and plenty of space to relax, hang out, and socialize. It was an evening enjoyed and loved by all who attended.

Mayfair

Mayfair is an annual mainstay of Vancouver College. It is the culmination of a year of hard work, perseverance, and organization from the students, staff, and volunteers. Through Dress Down Days, the students are vital contributors of goods to the Mayfair. Books, toys, and other unknown treasures are donated from the homes of Vancouver College students. The manpower used to run this large event is generated by all the volunteers in the Vancouver College community. In essence, the Mayfair is a team effort built upon generosity and dedication, which changes the school from a second home to a showcase of talent, excitement, and vitality. Travel through the packed fairgrounds and inhale the rich aromas of multiethnic cuisine, enjoy a round at the games or rides, or browse the piles of merchandise for unbeatable bargains; a more rich and vibrant atmosphere can't be found elsewhere.

Remembrance Day

In Flanders Fields

In Flanders fields the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.

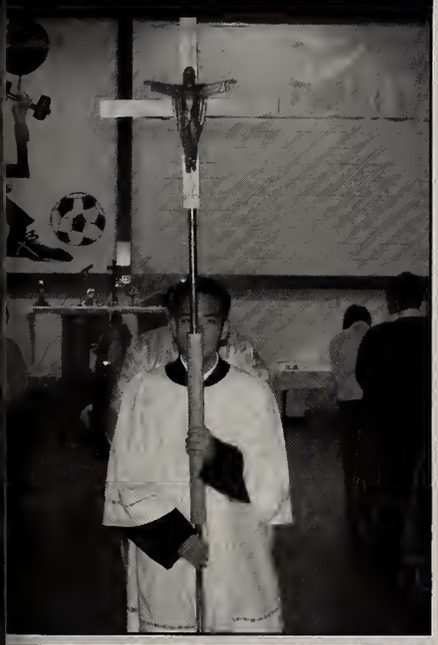
We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved, and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe;
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break safe with us who die
We shall not sleep, though popies grow
In Flanders fields.

Lieutenant John McCrae

Liturgy & Masses

In our daily life at school, we are unable to find a moment of silence for reflection. Our academic and athletic activities occupy most of our time, but being a faith and learning community, the few encounters we have with Christ throughout the year are at the heart of VC. Not only do we experience the love of God during these liturgies, each individual student has an exclusive meeting with God. It is a time when the diverse community of VC unites as one with God.



Walk-a-thon

Once again, that time of year rolled by and Walkathon 2004 made quite a splash. Despite the damp, rainy weather, the Irish spirit remained high. Masses of Vancouver College students laced up their sneakers and walked to raise money for their school. Elementary school students buddied-up with a senior and began their trek around the Irish track. Some little ones were lucky enough to get by with a lift from their buddies. The other grades took a lengthier route around Queen Elizabeth Park. On route, parent volunteers along with various Fighting Irish staff were stationed to keep the students safe while they enjoyed thier stroll around the park. Whether it was a few laps around the track or a walk around the park, Walkathon 2004 raised $93,600.00 for the school. When the students finished their rounds they headed back to the cafeteria for a refreshing, well deserved break and lunch. Thanks are due to the Vancouver College community, staff, parents and students, for making Walkathon 2004 a huge success. It is one of the many events that shows how much of the Fighting Irish spirit we have in us.

Christmas Concert

The annual attraction of the Christmas Concert filled the gymnasium with a symphony of singing instruments. Joining the programme this year was the newly formed VC Choir and the VC/LFA Mixed Choir. Each ensemble had their time to shine, entertaining the audience with a diverse selection of music. Under the direction of Mr. Olson and Br. O'Loughlin, the bands and choirs delivered a magnificent performance of woven melodies and harmonies.

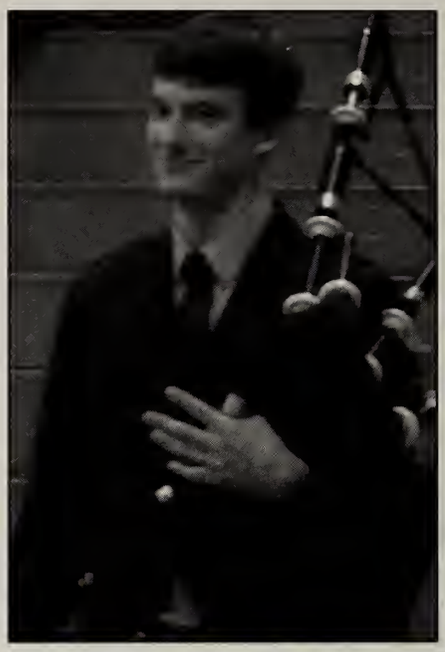
Elementary Christmas Concert

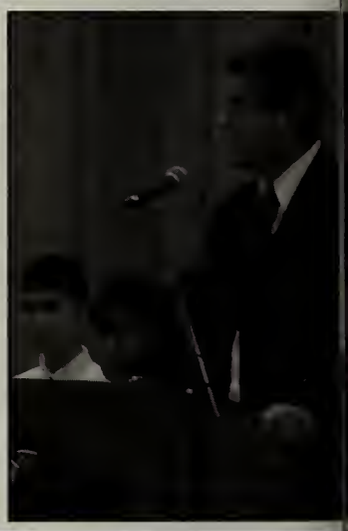
Every year, the elementary students impress their friends, classmates, teachers, families, and the audience with their own Christmas Concert. Held before Christmas day, anyone who watches will be filled with the Christmas spirit. For weeks, all the students and teachers from Kindergarten to Grade 6 practice their lines, songs, and actions for the one big night to impress the audience and themselves. Costumes on, microphones in hand and excitement in the air, they never cease to amaze the crowd and this year is no exception. The massive applause that always awaits them can only further the success and pride for all the hard work they dedicated to this night.

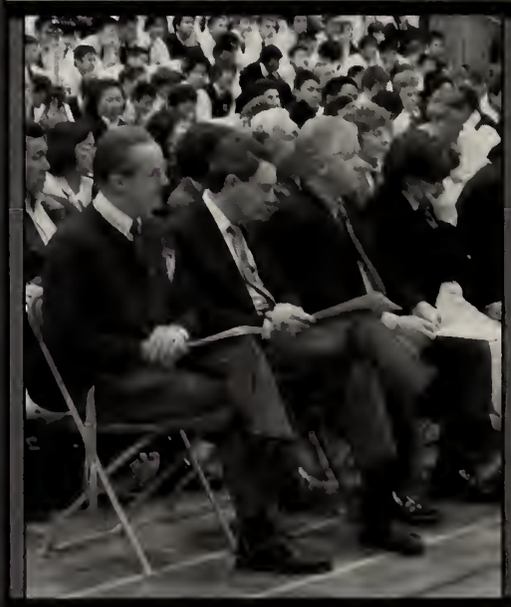
President's Honours Society

One day in October, Vancouver College made a group of students feel at home by recognizing them for their outstanding scholastic achievement and inducting them into the President's Honour Society. Just as home life fosters personal growth and achievement, Vancouver College does the same by creating the President's Honour Society, encouraging and celebrating academic achievement. Each one of the President's Honour Society inductees will agree that their success is due, in part, to working in an environment that is conducive to excellence. Vancouver College, although it cannot ensure that the home life of each student promotes success, does all that it can to ensure that students can work in an atmosphere favourable for achievements of all kinds. The students congratulated at the President's Honour Society ceremony were merely benefiting from their hard work, determination, willpower, and intelligence. However, they did not ascend to their academic summits overnight, so where did it all start? It starts at home. Home is where the student first develops tools that he will use throughout his pursuits, whether they be intellectual or athletic. Behind each of the President's Honour Society inductees' successes are nurturing homes. Each inductee can attribute part, if not all, of his success to his home life. Thus, Vancouver College, in thoughtfully recognizing the student for his academic success, also recognizes the home that shaped him. Vancouver College recognizes the importance of an atmosphere in which students can feel comfortable, be it at home or at school. The President's Honour Society is an ideal way for making students feel at home.

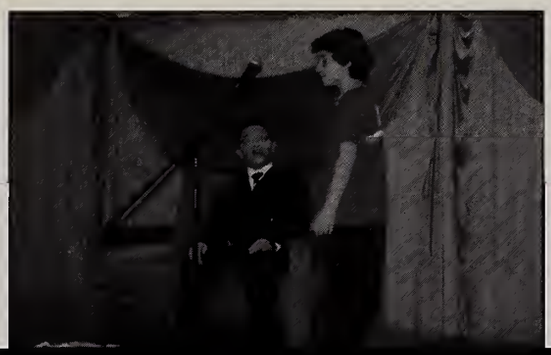
- Mark Balantzyan

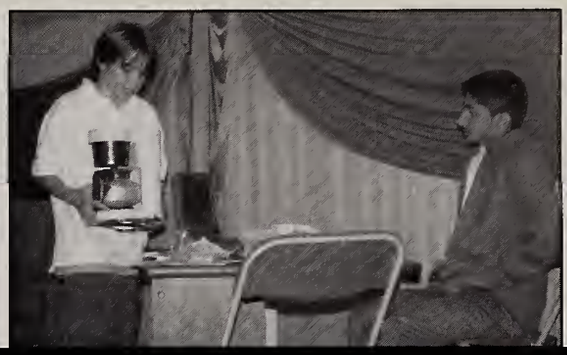






Students from middle school gathered in the school cafeteria, and for one evening, parents and students alike were treated to the artistic talent of the aspiring actors. Under the tutelage of Mrs. Landsky, these students performed admirably for Vancouver College's inaugural Middle School Drama Night.





Middle School Drama Night

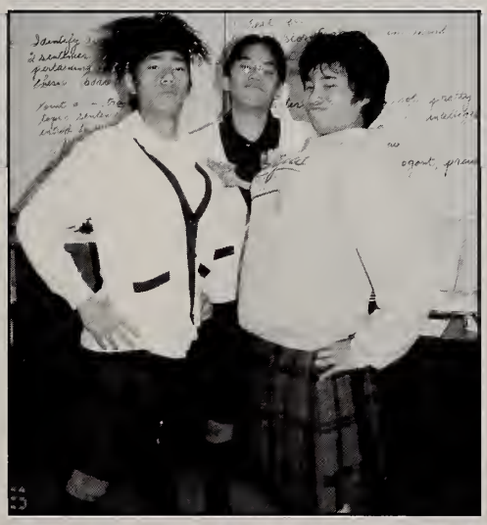
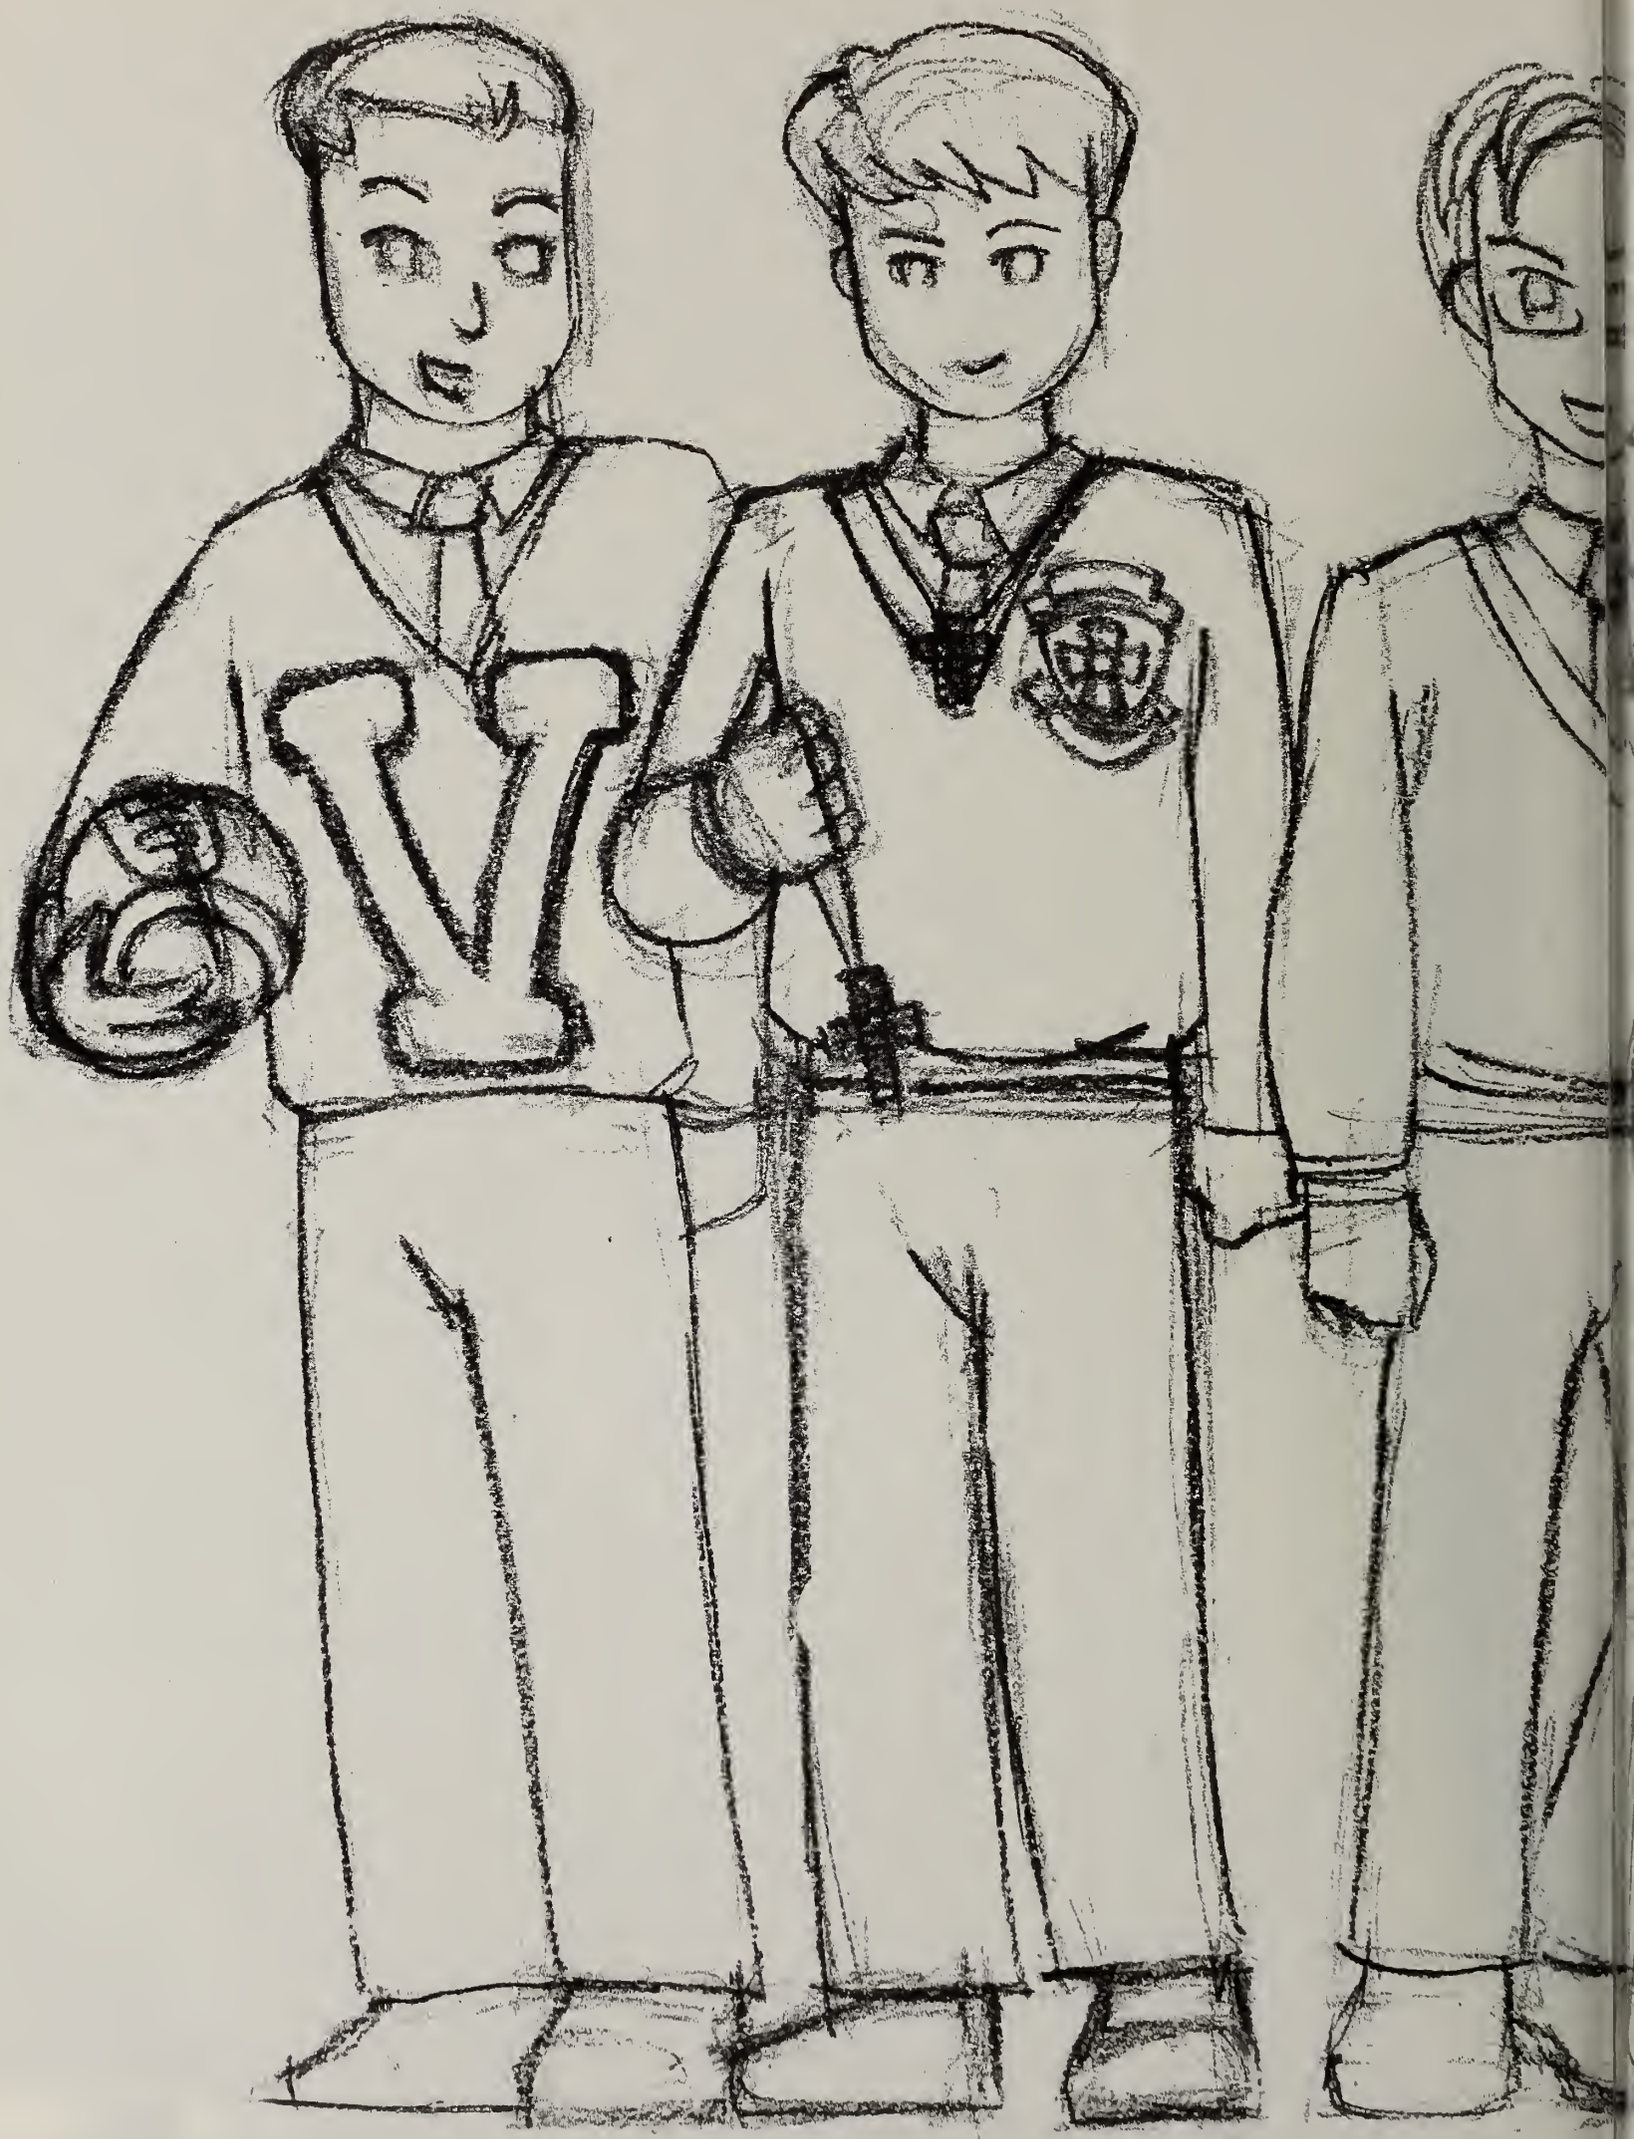
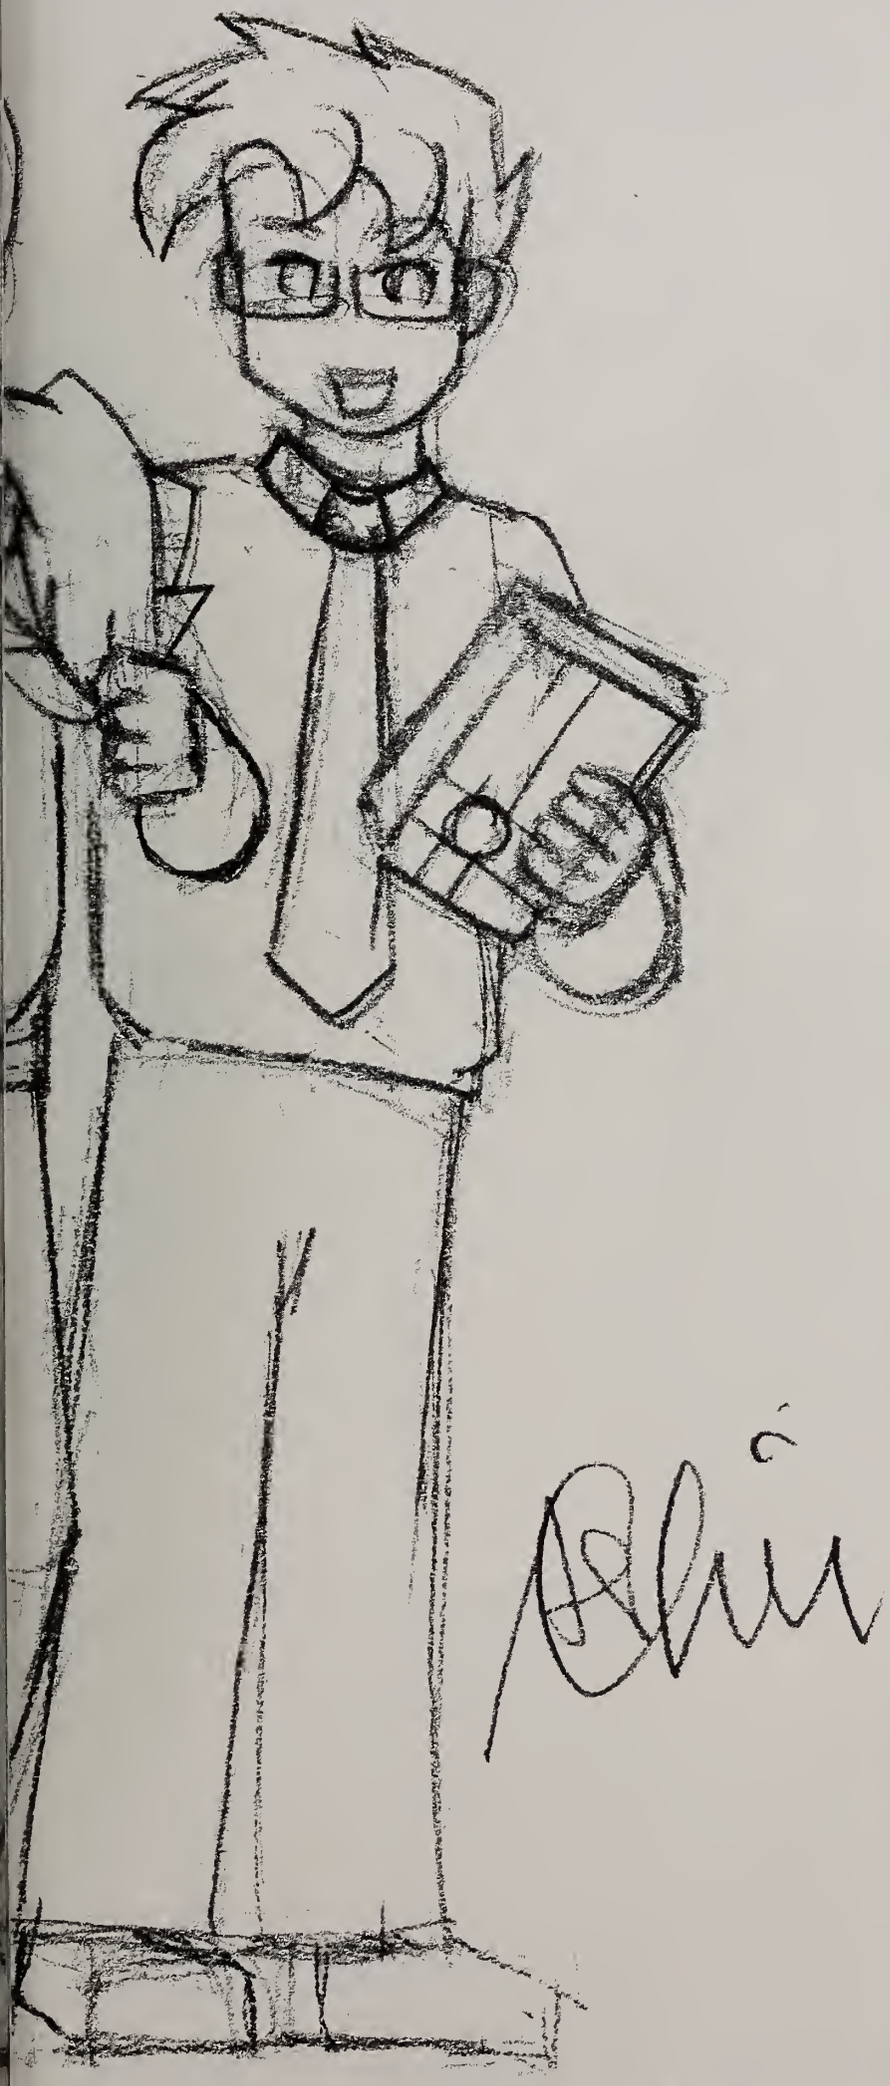
or a day in October, monsters, superheroes, nd other characters roamed the hallways of ancouver College, each competing for the top ize at the Halloween Costume Dress-Up, the unted, "Best Costume". Although only one udent won the top prize, this oppurtunity to splay one's stranger side was grabbed by any students and a sense of diversity within ommunity was created.

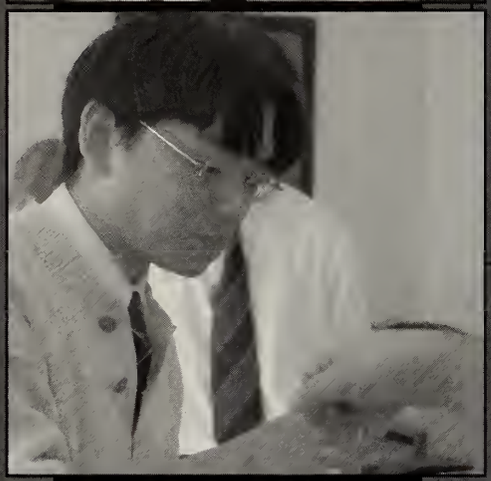






Clubs

Diversity within unity. As all brothers are different from each other and have different interests, so are the students at Vancouver College. Fostered and encouraged by our teachers and parents, each one of us finds true meaning in the phrase "a home away from home" when we assemble in our clubs and share similar ideas with those in our groups. It is in these organizations where we, as brothers and classmates, learn most about each other, and together, form a strong voice for the rest of our family at Vancouver College to hear. Some of us believe in being able to help, some of us believe in the purity of sport, some of us believe in the power of the pen, and some of us believe in preserving life. Whatever it is that we believe, there is a common bond between all of the groups here at Vancouver College. We believe in expressing our love for the family of Vancouver College in different ways, collectively making this school truly a home. Through our differences, we realize that we are all made from the same fabric, the fabric that is Vancouver College, making us all similar because we are all diffrerent. As brothers should be.



The Student Council has the difficult task of representing the student body in school affairs. With the guidance of Mr. Roger DesLauriers, our moderator, and each member's diligence and dedication, the Student Council this year has organized a myriad of activities for the students. VC dances; candy-o-grams; these are a few examples of the Student Council in action. We would like to thank the people who have contributed to the Student Council projects, especially the staff and the student body for their unwavering support.

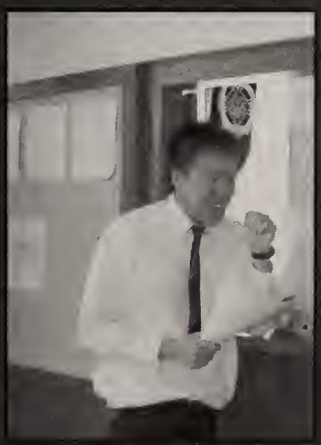
Grad Commitee

The Grad Committee is responsible for organizing various grad related events at Vancouver College, and its members are some of the hardest working students in the school. In this exclusive "brotherhood," there is a demand for people to sacrifice their time, and sometimes their sanity, to see that certain things get done well and on time. This group's members are intolerable of slackers and have the authority to "hunt down" anyone deciding to catch a coffee break during work hours. Luckily, however, there has been no need for intervention, as everyone in the Grad Committee has managed to hold their own. Well done, boys.

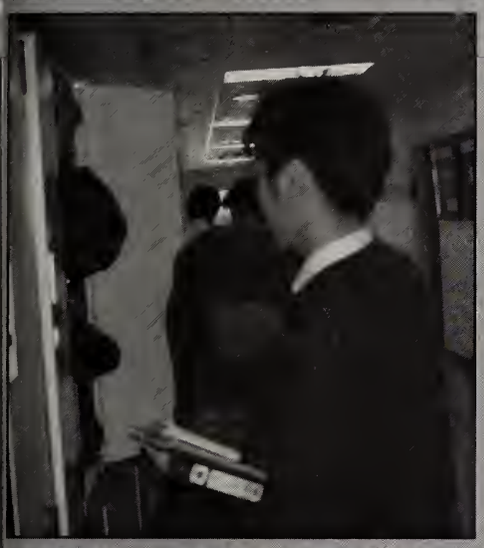


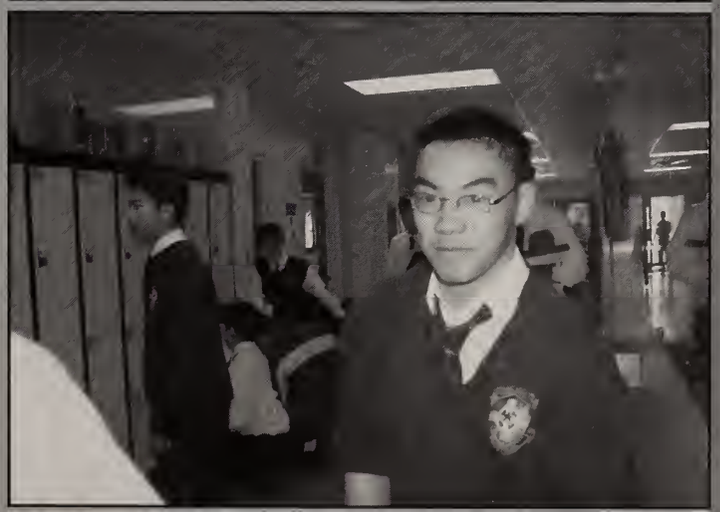
LETTERMEN

The Lettermen Association is an organization made up of athletes who work hard to keep the Irish spirit thriving at Vancouver College. Volunteering at various VC fundraisers the Lettermen set an example for all students to follow. Vancouver College Lettermen volunteer at such events as the Finnegan Ball, Mother's Day Tea Party, VC Sports Hall of Fame Dinner and May Fair. Besides helping out, Lettermen are expected to spread the Irish spirit through showing support to all fellow athletes and taking an active roll in acknowledgeing the elementary students. The Lettermen Association at Vancouver College is an age old tradition that continues to set the standard for what a Fighting Irishman should be.

EDMUNDIANS

The Edmundians are "people of spirit and service" who live according to the example of Christ. As Christ "brought justice to the poor, restored sight to the blind, proclaimed freedom to captives and announced a year of the Lord's favour" (Luke 4:18), Blessed Edmund Rice followed Christ's example, serving as another example of Christ's love. The Edmundians model after Jesus and Blessed Edmund Rice in their desire to be of service. Within the school, the Edmundians can be seen all over the school campus with their navy blue sweater, lending their time and talents to students, parents, and faculty. During the school year, the Edmundian involvement extends into Kids Help Phone, Doors Open Soup Kitchen, fasting for World Vision for thirty hours, and various other fundraisers for charities. Always giving out of the goodness of their hearts, the Edmundians continue to live up to the tradition of Blessed Edmund Rice and Jesus Christ through their words and more importantly, their humble actions.



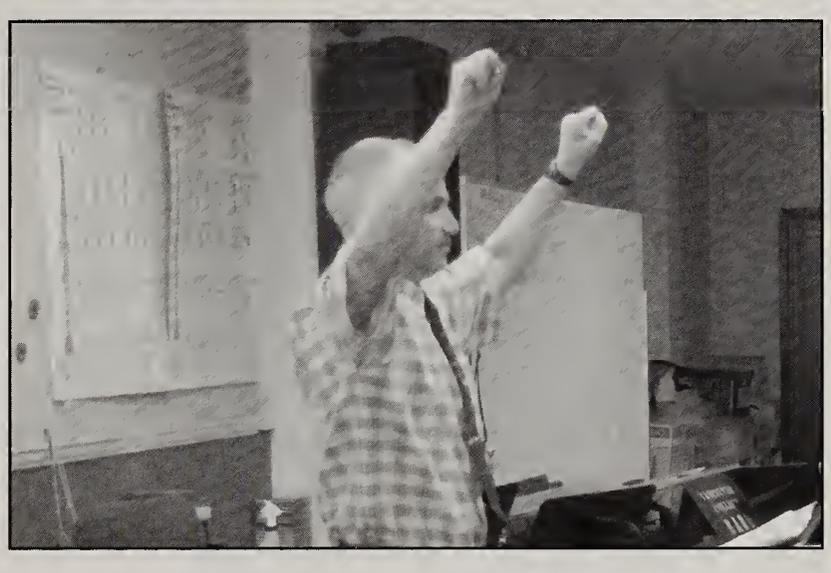


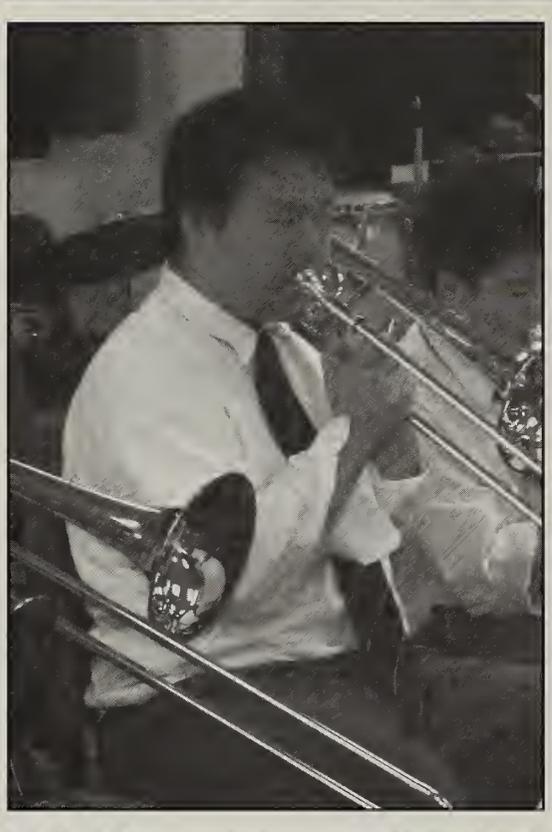
PRO-LIFE

Prayer for Reverence for Life

Almighty God, giver of all that is good, we thank you for the precious gift of human life:
-for life in the womb, coming from your creative power,
-for the life of children, making us glad with their freshness and promise,
-for the life of young people, hoping for a better world
-for the life of people who are disabled, teaching us that every life has value,
-for life of the elderly, witnessing to the ageless values of patience and wisdom,
Like Blessed Mary, may we always say "Yes" to your gift. May we defend it and promote it from conception to its natural end. And bring us at last, O Father, to the fullness of eternal life in Jesus Christ, our Lord.
Amen

The Vancouver College Concert Choir begins its first year with great promise. Boasting over 40 members, the choir practices long and hard to bring their collective voice to the school. Drawing its core members from last year's LFA/VC Mixed Choir, the choir trains their voices in songs from various styles, from Classical Choral to Broadway Musical. Many thanks to our choir director, Br. O'Loughlin, for his dedication and hard work in leading the budding choir.





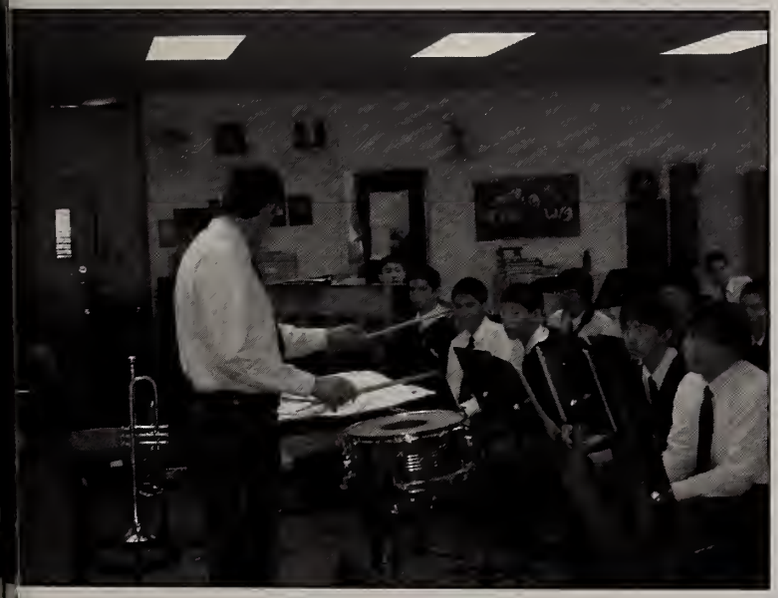
Band

It is 7:30 in the morning, and the sound of soothing, musical harmonies permeate throughout the courtyard. At first, one wonders where the sound is coming from. Upon realizing the location of the sound, one climbs the endless flight of stairs and discovers something astonishing: instrument cases littering the floor, music sheets filling up the stands, and students taking up the seats. What is going on here? It is the humble room where many of the talented musicians of Vancouver College go to better their techniques, to absorb new musical knowledge, and to quench one's passion for music; it is the band room.

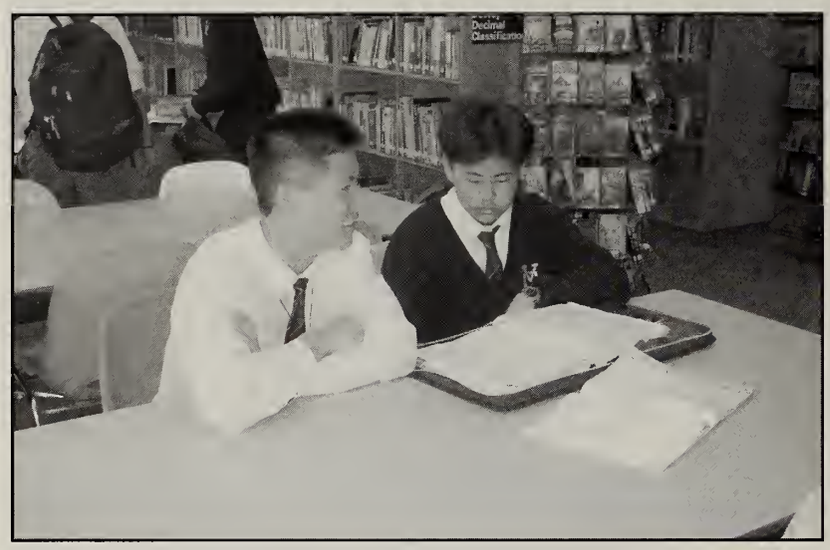
From the youthful beginners in grade 7 to the more mature members of the Senior Concert and Senior Stage band, each band has its unique features. Under the undying leadership of the band director, Mr. Larry Olson, these bands excel in every festival they attend. Every year, the band program holds a Christmas and Spring concert to flaunt their talents. In addition to the local concerts, many of the bands participate in festivals, including the Interior Jazz Festival in Kelowna and the Whistler Festival.

In addition to providing a relaxing atmosphere and a safe haven from the stresses of life, the band program expands one's knowledge of music. There are no boundaries in band with the plethora of varying musical instruments on the floor - only opportunites.

-Terry Vince



PEER TUTORING



The peer tutoring program allows students to receive academic help from their peers. It provides an atmosphere which promotes learning, in the for of extra help, to students with various academic questions. With the help of knowledgeable peers, these students expand their understanding of a particular subject. They are given the opportunity to learn from a different perspective and benefit from the extra guidance provided.

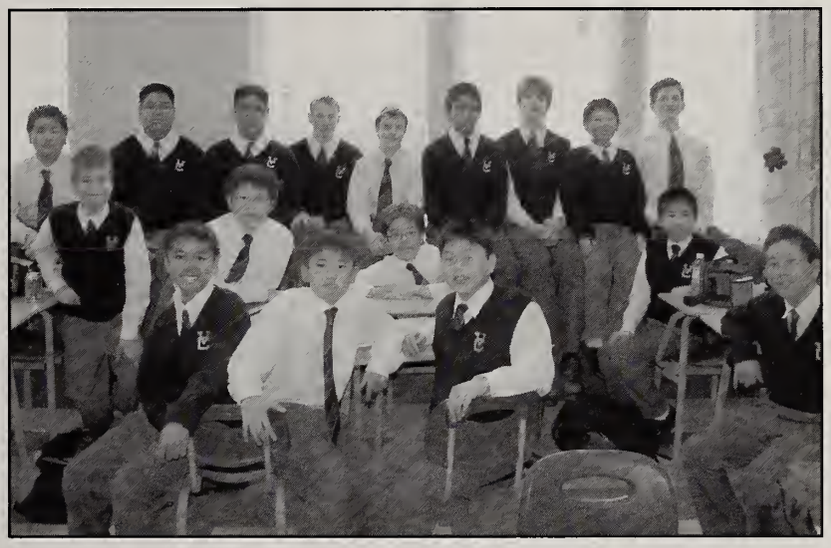
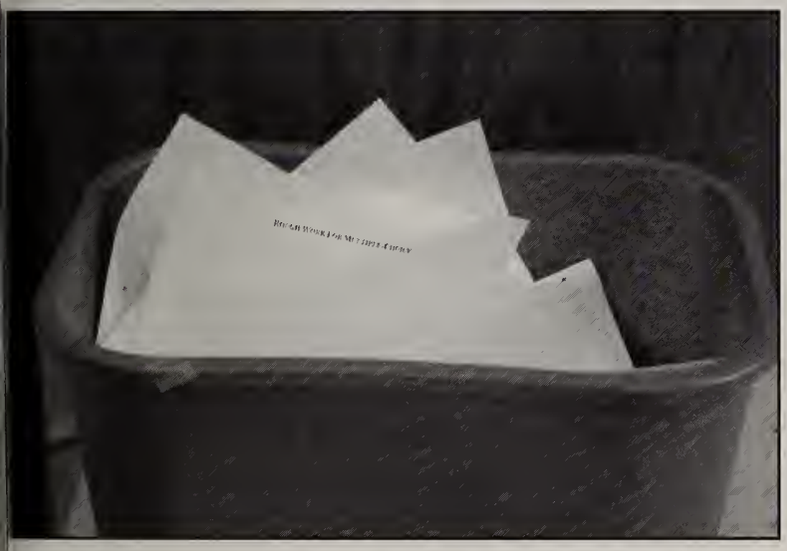
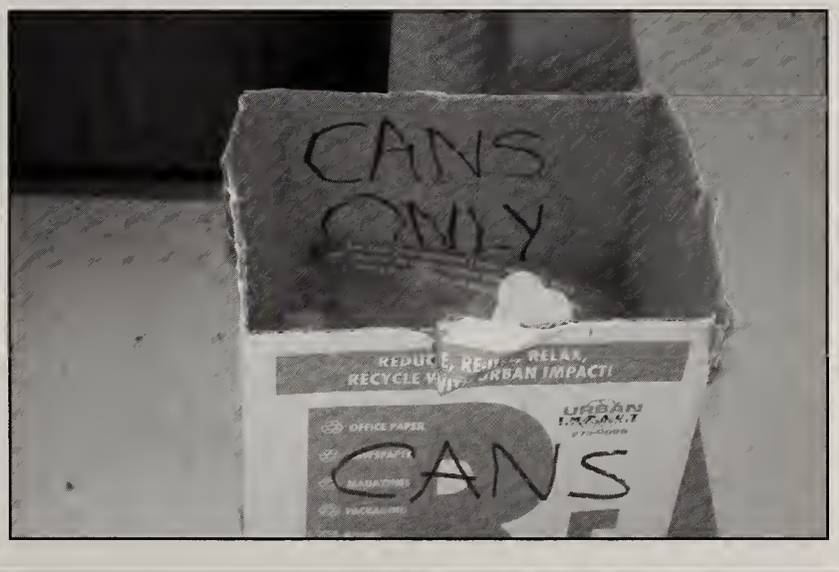
Environment Club

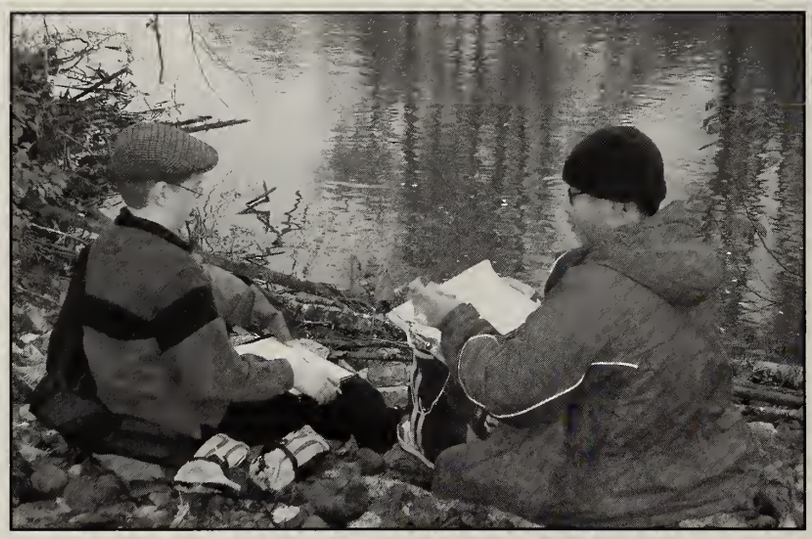
This year in the Environment Club, we have gone on some very interesting field trips, and there are many more to come. The Environment Club just recently adopted an orphaned chimp from the Jane Goodall Institute of Canada. We also adopted a Vancouver Island Marmot, a species that is almost extinct. The adoptions help fund research on these animals. The Environment Club also has its own weather recording machines and report the information to Environment Canada. Every week on Thursday, some students stay after school to help recycle paper from all the classrooms and offices. We also recycle beverage containers from the cafeteria. This year we have gone snow shoeing on Grouse Mountain. Later in the year we will have a lot more fun field trips, such as camping, sea kayaking and visiting a sea lion research facility.







OUTDOOR ED.



On the first weekend of November, from November 3rd to November 5th, the Grade 7 classes went to the North Vancouver Outdoor School in Brackendale and learned various things about the outdoors. Accompanied by Mr. Tagulao, Ms. Rogers, and Mrs. Ottnad the Grade Sevens helped a salmon hatchery, learned about forest ecosystems, studied ponds, learned how to shoot arrows, played games, and even ate and slept. The Grade Sevens had a great time at Outdoor Education, and many of them thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

MATH CLUB

If you have ever felt an innate penchant for mathematics, then the Math Club is the place to be. A group of math enthusiasts meet in the elusive Nardi classroom every Tuesday and Friday to fathom the problems of Principles of Mathematics 11 and 12, math contests and beyond. Math Club is open to all curious and questioning mathematical minds.

Our Goal:

1. To challenge and dominate every math question before us.
2. To produce more math teachers like Mr. Nardi
3. To help every student who demonstrates a willingness to learn.

Our Jobs:

Co-Presidents: Carter Lee and Noel Nguyen
Executives: Vincent Lee
Finance Minister: Tim Chan
Teacher: Joe Tse
Teachers' Assistant: Mr. Nardi
Honorary Member: Mr. Freire

Our Accomplishments:

Provincial Exam Practice Booklet
Learning Principles of Mathematics 11 and 12 at a deeper level
A safe place for mathematical minds to eat lunch
Tutoring many, many students regularly
6¢ and a button in the "Nardi Millenium Fund"

- Mr. Nardi

PHYSICS OLYMPICS

Although not as strong as last year's dream team, the group of students that participated in this year's Physics Olympics performed much better than expected. Thanks to the leadership of Vincent Lee and the guidance of Mr. Ben Kim, the team was able to overcome any challenge thrown at them.

S.T.R.I.N.G.S

For the second straight year, the VC STRING Society has been successful in providing students with exposure and knowledge in various scientific fields. The acronym STRINGS stands for Science, Technology, Research, Innovation, and Neo-Growth. The word "String" comes from the Superstring Theory, the new theory of the universe which may unlock even more secrets after the Threory of Relativity and Quantum Mechanics. Members of this club are all enthusiasts of science, always possessing the desire and curiosity to know more. The year, students were given a chance to conduct a DNA lab by themselves as well as to go on a trip to Bamfield to study marine biology. These were but a few of the exciting activities with the STRING Society. The VC STRING Society continues to seek to be at the forefront of all scientific progress at Vancouver College.

INKLINGS

We, the Inklings of Vancouver College, born in the collegiate year of 2004-2005, are pledged to the dedication of the fine pursuit of literature. Founded by Mr. Tony Howie and first populated by the graduating class of 2006, our vision is to create an environment of perpetual literary energy, reaching beyond the standard curriculum. If one truly appreciates the written word, then one will inevitably have the desire to create it. This reverberating cycle of appreciation and creation will hopefully cultivate a society of men of letters, as befitting our picturesque brick-laden school and scenic grounds. We are modeled after the original Inklings of Oxford and, as such, are indebted to their dominant belief and faith in Jesus. While we may not all be Catholics or even Christians, we are obliged to recognize the underlying force that prompted those great wordsmiths to create some of the most cherished works of the 20th Century.

IRISH PRIDE

Introduced to the school this year, the Irish Pride club is dedicated to promoting the Fighting Irish spirit throughout the school. By making posters, leading cheers, and organizing pep rallies, the Irish Pride club is the embodiment of Irish spirit, a reminder of what each student at Vancouver College has inside of them. Led by Miss Rogers, the Irish Pride club is Irish spirit to its fullest, a club which helps bring out the Finnegan in all of us.

The VC B-boy (Breaker Boy) club has again been revived in Vancouver College. Our club started up again this year and is composed of b-boys who have been rockin' it for a long time, as well as new comers who want to learn and become a part of the b-boy scene. The purpose of this club is to share our creative skills through the culture of hip-hop and old school funk. We dance with passion and manipulate the foundation of the dance to suit our own personality. The club meets every Friday at senior lunch to practice and maybe have a friendly battle amongst ourselves. We are the VC b-boy club and we are here to rock the dance floor. PEACE!

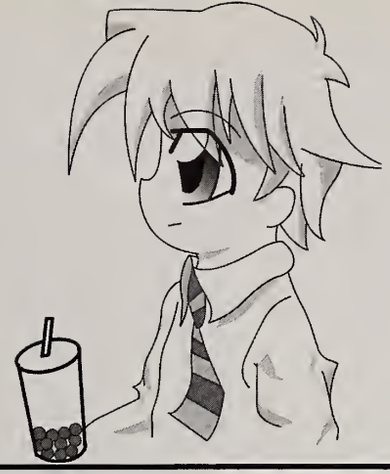
ANIME



The Society for the Study of Modern Japanese Visual Culture

The Society for the Study of Modern Japanese Visual Culture is the new and improved Japanimation club. In order to more deeply understand Japanese culture, the society has expanded its domain to include Japanese comics (manga) and video games. Meetings are held regularly twice each week in Mr. Nardi's classroom during senior lunch. There, members can unwind by watching anime or playing video games, or they can discuss with other members on various topics on modern Japanese visual culture. New members are always welcome.

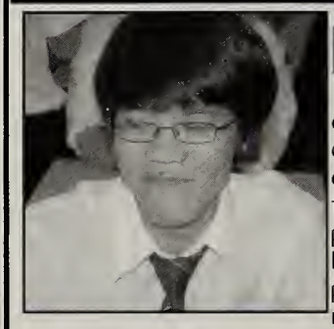
Wow. The yearbook is finally done. I don't know why I even showed up to that first meeting, but I fel compelled to ensure the yearbook was a success. Well here it is! It was difficult to get some of the guy working, but once we were at it, we did a sufficient job. I'd like to say to the incompetent people who claimed to do work and did jack that you guys are useless, but most importantly thank you to Jeff, Gordon and most of all Joe Tse. I handed the torch over to him and he did a much better job that I could have done. My tyranny at Vancouver College has finally come to an end. Maybe the future will bring light or another period of darkness. All I can say is that I've left my mark at this school, and this yearbook is one of those shining gems.

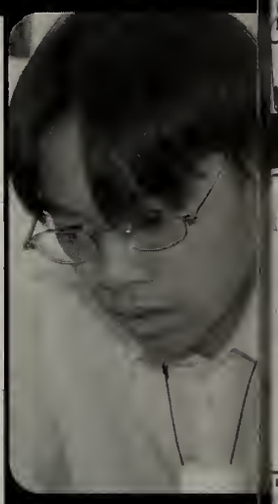


Alvin Lui - Senior Copy Editor

The past couple of months working on this year's edition of the yearbook have been hectic—months!? Well it only got intense the last couple of weeks. Okay, so the past couple of weeks have been hectic and the only help came from an unexpected source: More specifically, the WordPad program on trusty computer #124 in the library. It has helped me compose utterly meaningless writeups for this production, including this piece of work you are currently reading. It was only until today, almost two weeks after the final deadline, that I realized how monumental the production of this yearbook was, and how difficult it was to work in a room as stuffy as the back room of the library, where all the videos are. And taking into account the work ethic of our ragtag staff of editors and cable TV in the computer lab, I guess it surprised even me that we got around to finishing this yearbook.

Besides thanking computer #124, there are a couple of other people who deserve a lot of the credit for Collegian 2005: Joe and Noel, for giving me stuff to do; Gordon and his layout crew (Jeff "Huge" and Jeremy), for giving me stuff to do as well and being incredibly reasonable with my inability to meet deadlines; Dave and his art staff (Nick and Albert); Nascar and Chris and the 70 other photographers we supposedly had at one point or another; and finally, Rene John Nicolas, my fellow copy editor, who deserves an editor's note on these pages, but because of student council work and encounter work, couldn't do it on time. Thanks also to Mr. Randy Duggan, who, to the staff's greatest relief, never got angry with us for not meeting deadlines. Which happened...on occasion.

Making the yearbook has been interesting, if nothing else. Good times at school: out of place jokes, cell phones, insaniquarium, late night TV and pizza. Good times at Victoria: supreme overlord, the hash, eggs, shopping and you-know-what, the Keg, the fat guy on the bus, and the crofties. Too bad we didn't learn anything there eh? To aspiring copy editors, you will find out quickly that the closer it gets to the deadline, and the later it gets in the night, you will tend to write a little faster. It becomes a question of quantity over quality, people. So here it is. Collegian 2005. Hope you like it. I'm out.



Joseph Tse

Senior Copy Editor

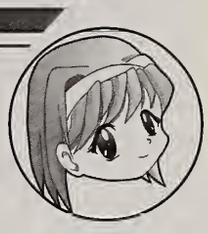
Life had been going just fine. With the English Provincial behind me, and with it a large portion of my nightly homework, I found a lot of free time on my hands. Feeling a tad unenthused by my not so large collection of video games at home, I decided to involve myself in an extra-curricular activity. After careful scrutiny of potentials, I decided to join the yearbook crew. Boy, was that a mistake.

Life became a waking nightmare. To meet our ever-approaching deadlines, I was forced to stay within the confines of a microscopic room with two computers, a pair of cheap speakers, and no internet, for hours after school and during weekends. Oh, and did I mention that it's past midnight and I have band tomorrow morning? Various bodily fluids (blood, sweat, tears, etc.) were discharged in the making of this yearbook and the result is what's in front of you. Don't complain, at least you got your yearbook.

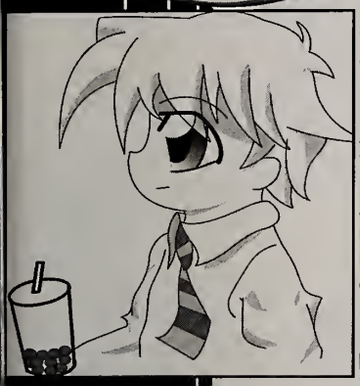
Yearbook wasn't all bad of course. For one, it gave me a whole slew of things to worry about instead of my own personal problems. And it was fun at times, and I learned a lot. Thanks to the crew for making the experience fun: Gordon, for teaching me everything about yearbook; Jeremy, for always showing up when I asked him to and helping me with my editor's layout; Jeff Wang, for always giving us something to laugh about; Noel, for conferring upon me the position of Supreme Overlord; Alvin, for doing all the writeups I was too lazy to do; Nick, for the awesome looking Rival Schools artwork; Albert, for drawing art whenever we asked; Dave, for showing up when there was no work to do; Don, for always complaining about missing photos; Chris, for finally showing up in the end; and Jeff, for always having reasons to be gone. A few thanks to some others: Simon, for keeping me sane through this ordeal; Jon, for giving me an excuse to ditch yearbook during spring break; Anaconda Shaun, for the hilarious impressions; Sam, Vince, and Jeff S., for getting us the money; my parents, for respecting my unorthodox and sporadic workschedule; Mr. Duggan, for ordering the pizza; my other teachers, for letting me cut class to finish this monster of a project; and the slave, for, well, being the slave. Lots of great memories to take away from here: nighttime drives to downtown (no Chris, you're not driving), Insaniquarium, finger battles, sea cucumbers, BBD, Nascar's "impression", paper towel ball battles, Jeremy's attempts at Cantonese, and broken croppers. And we can't we forget the music: Mezame, Suppuration-Core, *~Asterisk~, UNLIMITED, D-tecnolife, The Skies Above, Man with The Machine Gun, Maybe I'm a Lion, anything Ayu, and extended spring break special.

To next year's crew: you're in my prayers. Hopefully, you learned something from our example. And if you didn't, may God have mercy upon your souls.

Gordon Yiu: Layout Senior Editor



" Congrats! to you for receiving your yearbook (most likely late) ! "



Teamwork, communication, and organization, vital elements in the construction of a yearbook, were traits we did not posses. With the absence of the original supreme overlord (halfway into the year), a photo team of ~3ppl (originally 30! -__- ;;) and a "laid back" art and copy department, the yearbook is finally complete.

As a "successful" Yearbook Team we battle through ~9 deadlines (none successfuly made), minimal photos (next to none ><!) a financial team which sent out the ad invitations on April 7(the day b4 the deadline), and artwork and copy which came near and after the final deadline (o _o ;;) I am forced to say that yearbook's only blessing was the layout team. JV, JV, &ME (^ - ^!!) and the dedicated workforce which came later (Joe ^ o ^!) *ok enough flaming (no not flames!)

A sincere thank you to all who worked on the yearbook for making it a "fun" yet "tormenting" epic in my high school life especialy: Jeffy, Josie, JErJEr, Anaconda Shaun, Albert, Alvin, and Don. Also, special thanks to Maxima, Logic Disk, the lost then broken cropper, the extended spring break special, and the massacred yearbook ladder. I walk away from this small two-computered, internetless room with many precious memories and experiences: addicting Jay Chow mp3s, Mezame/Suppuration-Core and other mp3s, Street Fighter music, Mando/Canto quizzes, TS's Hot Boxing (Layout guyz know what i mean -___-!!! * oh god open a window!), insaniquarium, nite time, rush hour drives to the airport Purolator (bad drivers), SEA CUCUMBERS!!, work till 11:00pm with the 3 layout guyz and 2 copy (always), and Fetta Chese (EewWw hahaha).

To the Collegian next year think twice b4 you join yearbook. If you still decide to become a part of yearbook be ready to make sacrifices. To my felow layout partner Jeremy, I wish you best of luck in your yearbook next year. May your experience with this year's yearbook aid you into making at least 1 deadline next year

(– v –). *P.S. dont do things last min! Not even Jeremy can save you then !

Jeff Wang: Layout Senior Editor

It's been approximately ten months, but we are finally done the yearbook. (OMG THE YEARBOOK IS FINALLY HERE!) The long hours, late after school working on the yearbook have helped me get to know the school and my friends even better. This yearbook is my contribution to the school, after 12 long years. I would like to thank everyone on the yearbook, for all their hard work and dedication they put into the yearbook: Gordon, Alvin, Noel, Joe, Jeff, Chris, Nick, Albert, Jeremy, Don, and all the other crew members. I would also like to thank all the staff and administration that supported us. It was fun working on the yearbook again. I hope next year's yearbook crew will find it the same. Have fun reading this yearbook everyone, and thank you everyone again. Far future crew members: Do not let the copy and photo department drag down the whole team and yearbook. Also, I advise you to go to Victoria. Although it is boring, there are some things you need to learn there. Do not always depend on the previous yearbook staff to aid you. ANYWAYS... This yearbook is probably late, but just be thankful you have one finally. We do not want to be the first year to not have a yearbook. I still remember all that pizza bought and eaten, all the games played, and all the music listened to. The late nights are always great, especially when you are with friends. Too bad we never take advantage of the situation we are in, but still it is fun.

So this is a summary of what to do for future yearbook crew members: Compile a good yearbook staff, consisting of a creative, skillful, determined, etc... layout, copy, art, and photo team. Do not lose faith in the yearbook so be creative and hardworking. Do not waste money. Do not leave things to the last minute. There is probably more I should say but i can not really think of it now.

ps. And if there are any late problems just blame the photo department like we did this year "cough" jeff nacar "cough" chris leung" O_O

Editor's Log - Time 2:42 am:

Hey look! The yearbook is finished! Instead of exaggerating on how long we've been in this room of torment and pizza, I'd just like to say, "CONGRATULATIONS! YOU'VE GOT YOUR YEARBOOK!" You had better appreciate the work we've put into this year's edition or else, "somebody's gonna get a hurt a real bad." HA. Anyhow, it's been quite a ride filled with "wakaka's," "Ymerej's," and pizza. I would like to personally thank Nodrog, FFej, Nascar, Alvin, and Leung for making my yearbook experience interesting. I would like to also thank Joe and Noel, the two supreme overlords for bossing me around. Hey look! I have my own type of font, ain't that grand HA. Don, Timbo, Anaconda Shaun, Albert, David, Nick and Rick, Kielski, Rene, Sam and Vince, and the SUBORDINATE (YOU KNOW WHO YOU ARE). OPEN THE WINDOW, BUY ME A COKE, ORDER THE PIZZA. A special thanks to them with the toils and troubles I gained from this year's yearbook crew, I think I'm set for next year when I do this again. As the days count down to another summer, I try to savor my absurd joy of sitting in this epitome of torment listening to our "revised spring break special," and reminisce. Psbb, not. It was fun and all guys, but we seriously need to hang out somewhere else other than a room with two computers that DO NOT have internet. Yea guys! True story! For Seriously! I swears it! This year's issue has been a real test on my creativity. Many of the layouts have been born from spur of the moment ideas, as well as our BLEACHED IDEAS (Gordon, wakaka...or...bawbawbaw). Anyhow I'll just randomly list fond memories of yearbook: Nascar's Kegs/The Grudge Experience, finger battles, ah phone, whistle club, ipod fights, Insaniquarium, SEA CUCUMBERS, It's a sword, LOGICDISK! MAXIMO!! McZame/SP -core-, Hot Boxing, Canto/Mando Tests, Leung is not Drying, JAY CHOW old mp3'S, UNLIMITED, Man With The Machine Gun, The Skies Above, Maybe I'm A Lion, Asterisk, D-tecnolife, Mangekyou, OPEN THE WINDOW, FETA CHEESE, EXTENDED SPRING BREAK SPECIAL, LATE NIGHTERS, DEGAUSS, BBQ, ADDS, static, Street Fighter Music, One More Memory, NIGHT AT THE ROXBORY (JEFF AND GORDON) Thanks to Mr. Duggan for ordering the pizza, and thanks to the whole crew again for saying I deserved a spot. Good luck in life seniors. PEACE. End communication. PS. A special good luck to my layout partner Gordon for all the wisdom and skills he has handed down to me.

As the editor of the Art Department for the 2005 yearbook, I was not faced with the same time constraints that the other editors laboured under. However, I believe that the entire art department and I have properly contributed a relegation of their artistic talents to depicting the vast berth of our school life. Every drawing possesses a certain unique quality that is yielded from the corresponding time and effort invested into the work's completion. Each piece a composite requiem of lines composed to exasperate the superfluous emotions that fill the school from year's beginning to year's end. The art, though varied in style, is a raw expression of the diversity of culture and class that everyday traval upon these school grounds. The throng of trials and plethora of conflicts only exist to buld every person into individuals of purpose. Our works, if forgone by ensuing years, will be to us forever an immortalization of our creative talents. Syntheses of talents are invested into this yearbook; every single aspect carrying distinguished relevancy. Artful expression, both implicit and explicit, depicts the myriad of emotions that course through the edifice of the schools essential being. Art is but a melodramatic expression of what we cannot put into words; either for lack of definability or fear of better judgment. Thus, the art department, one component of a greater functioning composition of compiled talents, becomes an outlet for the images of the mind's eye. If this is not enough, the least one can do is appreciate the talents and efforts of the entire yearbook staff.

As a chief editor in this yearbook, I must say it has been an interesting experience. I will never forget meeting Supreme Overlord in yearbook camp. The art department worked long and hard hours drawing the very substance of this yearbook. I am very proud of our acheivement. However, I am disappointed at theoversight of not giving VC Lacrosse enough credit in this book. I apologize and hope that next year's staff will correct this. Lacrosse is the next big sport at this school, and we should recognize as such. Well, it's been a great 13 years at this school. Cherish the memories that are stored in this book. Well, that's it from me, catch ya later!

This year has been crazy. Too many thing to name. "I will always remember…" Whistler Band Trips, Pre-grad and the "after" party and also the everything that could go wrong that went wrong "after after" party. I will definitely miss Encounter, and my 'last' days of high school. I would also like to thank the STM bahdays, Cat, Adrian, and all the VC boys for all the times they helped me. Best of Luck to the Grads of 2005! Also hopefully my company will be successful and you'll all hear about it. SURGE PRODUCTIONS!

Sweet! More Space! Woot! Haha! LOL! ROFL! YEAH! Crazy, can't believe we actually finished the yearbook, even thought it's late. Me so tired…but have to finish! Anyways…It took countless hours taking and organizing the pictures, but was well worth it. Thanks to my photo crew who were also other parts of other departments: Nascar & Don my fellow co-editors, Tim, Jeremy, Kielski, and last and least Joe Tse with the horrid photoage. Working with the crew has been great. Especially, the starcraft, RADIO FREE ROSCOE PICS (Jeremy – Pronto, Jeff – Question Mark, Me – Smog), free pizza, late nights, coming to school on weekends, Jeremy trying to learn chinese, driving around the parking lot, camera phonage, tape battles, watching tv, making fun of Joe Tse, our "Grudge" experience, procrastinating, music, insaniquarium, White Spot, and many other unforgettable times. Special thanks to Joe and Noel for being the "Mom" and continuing to nag us to get pictures taken, getting our writeups in, and finish the layouts. Also props to Jeremy for making my layout and making yearbook so much more entertaining. I would also like to thank the rest of the yearbook crew: Gordon, Jeff W, Sooch, Nick & Rich Ang, and Albert. Much thanks to Mr. Duggan for putting up with our laziness and also Mrs. Beltgens for putting up with our messy room. In addition I would like to apologize to the VC Staff in such late notices for pictures. Also one of the memorable moments. "WHAT!?!? THE DEADLINES TODAY!?!?!?"

Good luck to Jeremy and his future yearbook crew. Word of advice; NEVER EVER RELY ON ANYONE and I mean ANYONE (except Jeremy of course) TO GET WORK DONE!

P'Z OUT! Chris Leung

Hmm… it's the last and final day of yearbook and me still trying to find stuff to write and to edit ahhhh! What to write! NOO! REID'S COMMING! O WELL… I DUNNO GORDON WHERE THE ENCOUNTER PICTURES ARE!!!! HI JEFF! JOE TSE I NEED PICTURES! NO!!!!
Okay, nothing else to write so shoutouts! w00t! haha

A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y and Z now I know my ABC"s next time won't you sing with meeeeee!

Wow so I get this spot? Really? Seriously? I thought I was just port time? Hmm, con't complain!

It's been one year that passed too quickly. Working for the yearbook has its up's and down's. But all in all, it was well worth the time! Missing out on some classes during the year to take some pictures or taking naps in the yearbook room right before Math and PE so we stay awake.The Domino's pizza, McDonalds, and even White Spot to keep us happy as the day goes by. Even until now, I joined the group as a "port time" member only to help when they need some backup. The numerous songs from last year's crew as well as ours, including Tim's Hard Drive. "Starcraft." Little did I know I'd end up doing quite a lot of work! All and all it was worth it!

Thanks to all the teachers, students, classmates, friends, coaches, everyone who tolerated us going into a classroom during a lecture or a test to let us take a picture or two.

To the yearbook crew, Jeff N. Chris, Jeremy, Tim, Gordon, Nick, David, Jeff W, John, Alvin, Joe, Noel, Albert, Rene, Clayton, Andrew, everyone, (sorry in advance if I didn't put your name!) we did it. It took a lot of work, but we did it!

Keep in touch, these five years have been crazy! They went by too quickly, but still crazy. I'll miss Encounter 39/40, the early morning cafeteria card games, spares, JV football, "Car napping," Whistler, "MAR15?! REIDS COMING!," too many things for this small space. We now travel to different places around the world, but the memories remain within this book. The laughs, anger, enjoyment, sadness, victories, everything. They can't be forgotten.

Also, to Linda somewhere in the world. I promised I'd help this time. Only one more left.

DON REYES

To anyone reading this and to all those non-believers, We did it! After all the hard work & dedication and all that pizza the yearbook club finished! Under staffed and full of procrastination the club struggled and strived to get the 05 collegian in our customers' hands.

My apologies goes out to Jeff W, Gordie Joe & Noel for my laziness. But I have the greatest gratitude towards you guys! If you guys didnt get off my back where would the photos be? Thanks also goes to Jeremy V, Timbo, Don, John K, Chris H & I, my photo crew and to the rest of the yearbook crew: Alvin Lui, Dave Soo Chan, Nick Ang, Albert Chiu, Rene, John Nicholas couldnt have done this w/o you guys.

So many memories! Chillin in the Bearyook room, car nappin, spazzin @ all the procrastinators, starcraft, the pizza, hallway lurking, weekend work, yearbook room naps, spares, lunch outings and the list goes on.

To the staff of VC, my apologies for asking for photos when the season is over & for telling you photos would be taken yet there was no one there. However your support and understanding has helped in the production of this yearbook.

If there is anything I learned working for the yearbook it is to never leave anything to the last minute.

After this year we all go in our separate ways but I will never forget this yearbook crew.

Thank You. PEACE! I M OUT!!!
To the next yearbook crew…DON'T SLACK, TAKE A LOT OF PICS, BE ON TIME. I am totally amazed that we finished this book. Thank God I dont have to do it again. Pz, I m out!

As the days become warmer and the sun lazes across the sky, the school year comes to a close. Summer has come, and we walk out of these doors away from our home. Some of us will be back in a few short months, while others will not be returning for a long time. No matter how far away we are or how much time has passed for us, we will always be a part of this home. Our parents who have taught us, and our brothers with whom we have laughed and cried with, they will forever be a part of us: a memory that we will not forget. Some of us will not have the opportunity to return, but we are always here, a part of this home called Vancouver College.
